Probers Seek Clue To Cause Of Plane Blast

CAB Confirms Viscount Exploded

BALTIMORE (AP) — Searchers probed through rain and muddy fields Wednesday for a clue—any clue—to the cause of an explosion that ripped apart a Capital jet-powered airliner in flight high over Maryland, hurling 31 persons to their deaths.

It definitely was an explosion, said soaked Civil Aeronautics Board officials who were investigating Tuesday's tragedy. But where on the plane the explosion was, what kind of explosive matter it was, or what caused it was anybody's guess.

A somewhat similar investigation was going on 300 miles to the southwest, where another Capital airliner—this one a four-engine Constellation—toppled over near the end of the runway at Charleston, W. Va., Tuesday afternoon. It tumbled down a 200-foot embankment and burst quickly into flame. Two were killed and six hospitalized of the 44 aboard.

CAB investigators there set up headquarters behind closed doors and began methodically questioning witnesses. The pilot of the plane, Capt. Richard W. Ohm, 32, of Falls Church, Va., was too seriously injured to talk with them.

Witnesses said the plane, as it landed, appeared to turn before it had slowed sufficiently and went over the side of the airfield, built by simply slicing off the top of a mountain.

Within an hour of the Charleston crash, a Capital Viscount, a four-engine turboprop out of New York City also bound for Atlanta, blew apart over farming country about 15 miles east of Baltimore. The weather was turbulent from a thundersquall.

The plane's captain, William C. Paddack, 52, of Detroit, with 29 accident-free years with Capital, had checked in on schedule at West Chester, Pa., as the plane flew south. Nothing was reported out of the ordinary.

Before he reached his next ground check point, Winchester, Va., 17 minutes away, there was a sudden flash and a muffled roar. Scattered bits of wreckage and the bodies of 27 passengers and the four crewmen sprayed a two-mile area.

The aircraft's weather radar wasn't working at the time, Capital reported, but the company attached little or no significance to it.

Was there a bomb on the plane? That question was asked again and again through the day. But no one in authority would comment, except the word from both CAB investigators and Capital officials that they were examining every piece of evidence for the cause.

If it were not a bomb, then what caused the explosion?

You could find as many theories as persons offering them.

The first sound off-the-cuff suggestion was that the plane, flying through the turbulence of the squall, hit a locally severe updraft or downdraft which ripped off a wing, causing fuel to spray into one of the hot engines and ignite, setting off a low order explosion.

But there was little evidence of fire among the bits of scattered wreckage, except for bits of scorched metal or parts of bodies.

More and more, it appeared that the explosion was within the plane's fuselage.

The clothing was completely torn off one body. This would tend to substantiate the theory that the force of the blast was within the fuselage, police suggested.

But a bomb? Still no comment from anybody in authority.

Tension was heightened by the arrival of two U.S. Army Intelligence officers and a detachment of soldiers from the Edgewood (Md.) Chemical Center.

They stood by as the officers checked through the luggage of Charles W. Drannbauer of Kansas City, one of the passengers, who reportedly was carrying top-secret

Herter, Lloyd, Gromyko Plan Nuclear Talks

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will meet with Soviet Foreign Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Thursday in an attempt to speed up the stalled nuclear test ban talks, it was announced Wednesday.

U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew Berding announced that the three statesmen would take time out from the regular East-West foreign ministers meeting to confer "on the suspension of testing of nuclear weapons" at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. e.d.t.) at Herter's Geneva residence, the Villa Greta.

French representatives will not attend the meeting since France has not been participating in the nuclear talks.

Herter and Lloyd met Wednesday to discuss "the nuclear testing ban conference, progress and what is likely to come up in the future," Berding said.

The two Western minsters were understood to have worked out plans for accelerating the six-months-old nuclear conference.

Authoritative sources said Gromyko first will be asked whether he has the authority to discuss the nuclear test ban problem and then to agree that East - West atomic scientists re-examine the methods they proposed a year ago for detecting illegal nuclear explosions.

John L. Lewis Scores Labor Control Bills

Mine Union Boss Shows Legislators Old Fighting Style

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis thundered Wednesday that labor control bills before Congress would "fasten a cast-iron chastity belt around the waists" of American workers.

The 79-year-old United Mine Workers chief told a House Labor subcommittee all these proposals to curb union corruption would reduce workers to second-class citizens. He said there are plenty of laws already in effect to handle corruption.

"Play fairly, ye givers of the law," he counseled.

Lewis dismissed the abuses spotlighted in Senate rackets hearings as isolated cases, and involving only "the dregs of the labor movement."

"Touch Of Inquisition"

He likened the special Senate committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), to "the Star Chamber under the Tudor kings, with a touch of the Spanish Inquisition."

Lewis showed his old fighting style, delivering his arguments with a barbed thrust that made the committee members wary in their questioning.

At one point, he was asked why Teamsters Union members elect James R. Hoffa to office.

Staring meaningfully at the committee, Lewis retorted: "I often wonder how many people, barring those in labor unions, are elected to office."

"I believe when you tamper with the liberties of 70 million workers you're tampering with the liberties of all Americans," Lewis said. "Damn the chains and those who advocate them."

"88 Days Of Misery"

Pending labor control proposals are backed by the rich against the poor, Lewis said.

"Eighty-eight pages of misery for members of labor unions," was the way Lewis described a bill sponsored by Chairman Graham Barden (D-NC) of the House Labor Committee.

As for a bill already passed by the Senate, Lewis said this measure is "more refined and delicate, and the misery isn't quite so strong."

The bills generally would require detailed reporting of union fund-handling to the government and would require unions to follow democratic practices, with the secretary of labor given broad powers to enforce the safeguards.

23 Hurt When Subway Train Rams Another

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rush-hour subway train, halted when a woman passenger pulled the emergency cord because a blond youth attempted to assault her, was rammed by another train on Wednesday. Twenty - three persons were injured in the collision.

A spokesman at Coney Island Hospital said 15 of the injured were treated in the hospital's emergency room and three were admitted. All were believed to be in fair condition.

The accident occurred in a Brooklyn station where the line is elevated. The first train, bound for Manhattan, was brought to a jolting halt in the station when Lucille Lobianco, 43, yanked the emergency cord.

After the train halted, she told conductor Irwin Dickstein that a youth about 17 years old ripped off her skirt and tried to pull off her undergarments. She screamed for help but there was only an elderly man in the car and she then pulled the emergency cord.

Dickstein called police while the boy and the woman waited.

But nine minutes later, the second train rolled into the station, past an automatic halting device, and rammed the parked train.

Passengers in both eight car BMT line trains were thrown from their seats.

Parts Of Stolen Stamp Collection Reported Found

DUBLIN (UPI)—A company official reported Wednesday that nearly $200,000 worth of rare stamps from a million-dollar collection stolen Saturday had been found in an office filing cabinet.

Paul Singer, managing director of the Shanahan Stamp Auction Co., the largest rare stamp dealers in the world, refused to comment on whether the stamps merely had been misplaced.

Singer had placed the value of the missing collection at $1,200,000. He said the robbery probably was the largest of its kind in history.

The stamps were part of the Lombardo Venezia collection. Shortly after the robbery was discovered, some $14,400 worth was recovered from a dust bin on a Dublin dock.

Mentally-Upset Winters To Enter Private Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Comedian Jonathan Winters, taken into custody for antics on San Francisco's waterfront, will go to a private institution for "rest and quiet," his manager said Wednesday.

"He is wound up and emotionally upset," said his manager, Martin Goodman. "We'll try to find a place where he can get a rest."

Goodman said Winters' wife, Eileen, had talked to the television and night club comic and San Francisco General Hospital doctors and agreed to take their recommendation that he be confined in a private hospital.

Dr. T. E. Alberts, superintendent of the hospital, said the comedian was "quite disturbed" and that staff psychiatrists recommended confinement.

Earlier Winters' manager expressed the opinion that his client was "probably just teasing" with the antics that landed him in the psychiatric ward.

But Dr. William K. Rubrecht, resident psychiatrist at the hospital, reported:

"It doesn't impress us as a joke."

The 32-year-old Winters was handcuffed and taken into custody Tuesday while acting "irrationally" on and about the square-rigged sailing ship "Balclutha," which is tied up at the San Francisco Embarcadero on public display.

Julius Larsen, 79, caretaker of the vessel, called police, who said the moon - faced comedian told them he was John Q from outer space and had been here "for years."

"This boat is a fake," Winters was quoted as saying. "It's got an outboard motor on it."

Ike Prods Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower shrugged a somewhat cold shoulder Wednesday toward the idea of a visit to the United States by Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower ducked replying directly to a news conference question whether Khrushchev would be officially welcome if he expressed a desire to come to this country.

"You people love to ask 'if' questions, don't you?" Eisenhower countered with a grin. "I think that you ought to wait until we hear something about it and then see what the situation is."

Speaking of Soviets in another connection, Eisenhower said "it is very difficult to see behind some one else's forehead" but that the Soviets seem to be trying to use the Big Four foreign ministers talks at Geneva as a propaganda platform.

The President said he is very hopeful of getting this phase of the conference over quickly so it can get around to fruitful negotiations on important problems.

Money Problems

The important problems at home which figured in the news conference to a large extent centered around money.

Eisenhower prodded Congress, at the conference and again in a special message, to get busy on what he called "very badly needed legislation."

He asked Congress to boost the federal gasoline tax 1½ cents a gallon to keep the vast highway construction program going, give the Federal Housing Administration authority to insure an additional six billion dollars of home mortgages and attack the problem of a 3½-billion-dollar wheat surplus.

And Eisenhower jumped at a chance to put in another plea for a balanced budget. In fact, he said, that is "the minimum target we are looking for." In times as prosperous as these, he said, "we ought to be getting some surpluses, we ought to be paying off something on our debt."

Debt Interest Costly

Interest on the debt is costing more than eight billion dollars this year, Eisenhower said, and that is "almost unconscionable." He emphasized the second word so strongly it took three tries for him to get it out.

Eisenhower said "each one of us is going to be hurt immeasurably" if spending gets out of hand. And he had a new definition

Summit Talk Terms Aired By Secretary

U.S. Delegate Gets Geneva Conference Down To Business

GENEVA (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter challenged the Soviet Union Wednesday to enter serious negotiations for concrete, self-enforcing agreements for European peace, but drew no encouragement from Andrei Gromyko.

The Soviet foreign minister rejected in advance the West's package plan for solution of the Berlin, German unity and European security issues.

Gromyko called the package plan, due to be presented in the Big Four foreign ministers conference Thursday, an attempt "to muddle together various political problems into one tangle." He declared such an approach would completely block the work of the conference.

Herter got the conference down to business as chairman of the third day of a session previously snarled by Soviet procedural moves.

He announced the United States, Britain and France will introduce proposals to ease tension "now spoiling relations between the free world and the Soviet Union." He promised U.S. participation in summit talks, which Moscow has been urging if the Soviets will dicker here in earnest.

Gromyko Gets Nowhere

All four ministers finally presented their opening speeches, delayed by a dispute over Gromyko's efforts to seat Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia as full negotiators in the conference.

Gromyko persisted Wednesday but got nowhere.

He said Poland and Czechoslovakia, early victims of Nazi aggression, should enter the negotiations now. He declared Western arguments opposing such a step—which include the basic theme that the Big Four alone are responsible for a German settlement—are without foundation.

Herter said the American position on Poland and Czechoslovakia remains unchanged. France and Britain held to the same view.

Gromyko has won limited speaking rights for the Communist East Germans at the conference. The same rights also apply to the West Germans. That was decided Monday.

Western spokesmen announced after the 2-hour, 45-minute meeting in the Palace of Nations that the Western powers will present their package plan Thursday.

Package Plan Terms

This plan, ironed out at a Western conference in Paris last month, links a solution of the Berlin crisis to German unification and a European security agreement. It is understood to provide for uniting Germany by a series of steps under Big Four auspices—and with the help of an all-German committee—over a period of two or three years.

Herter and his Western colleagues stressed in their opening statements, originally scheduled for delivery Tuesday, that the West will not be steamrollered by Soviet diplomatic pressure.

Gromyko, whose drive for seating Poland and Czechoslovakia was at least temporarily stalled, snapped back in a 25-minute speech at what he called "dangerous new rearmament" in Europe.

Gromyko apparently referred to NATO nuclear missile bases. He said the rearmament created a bad atmosphere for the Geneva conference.

The opening speeches, as expected showed the Eastern and Western positions directly opposed.

Gromyko called for conclusion of a German peace treaty as a first step toward normalizing international relations.

Herter stressed the need for all-German elections—of the right of the German people to establish "a government of their own choice for all Germany." He added: "The problem will remain until the entire German people can express their will freely."

Senate Group Votes Approval Of Dillon, 16-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved President Eisenhower's nomination of C. Douglas Dillon to the number two position in the State Department.

Dillon's nomination as undersecretary of state cleared the committee by a vote of 16-1, with only Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) in opposition. It now goes to the full Senate for action.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said he hoped to call up the Dillon nomination for floor action Thursday and believed it "will be approved." Long said he would carry his fight against Dillon to the floor.

Approval of the Dillon nomination by the Foreign Relations Committee came after the Senate Labor Committee approved Stuart Rothman to be general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

Both followed a news conference statement by Eisenhower that he detected a motive other than a simple desire to check qualifications in "delaying tactics" applied to his key nominations recently.

A nomination that the President specifically endorsed again Wednesday—Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of commerce—appeared to be stalled at least for the remainder of this week. Chairman Warren L. Magnuson (D-Wash.) of the Senate Commerce Committee said the group planned to hear at least four more witnesses before closing the Strauss hearings.

At Wednesday's hearings, Strauss and columnist Drew Pearson accused each other of lying about a Pearson story on the commerce secretary.

When their sharp exchange died down, James B. Carey, president of the AFL-CIO Electrical Workers Union, accused Strauss of having a "napoleonic complex" and of not being "temperamentally qualified" to head the Commerce Department.

Lama Refugees Safe

MISMARI, India (AP)—Twelve lamas who fled Lhasa monasteries after the mid-March uprising in Tibet against Red China's rule trudged into an Indian government refugee camp here Wednesday. These Buddhist priests were among 92 men and boys who reached the haven after a six-week-long trek. About 7,000 other refugees are heading for the camp from frontier areas.

Two Indicted In Distribution Of Poisoned Fish

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The president of a seafood firm and his foreman were indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday in connection with distribution of poisoned fish which allegedly resulted in the death of a boy and the illness of 200 other persons.

Named as defendants on felony and misdemeanor charges were Daniel DiOrio, president of Universal Seafood Co., and Noel LoCastro, his foreman.

The firm also was named in the indictment handed up to U.S. District Court Judge J. Cullen Ganey, who set bail of $1,000 for DiOrio and $500 for LoCastro.

Health authorities said poisoned flounder had killed 3-year-old Dale Kleinschmidt, Haddon Heights, N. J., and sent 200 other to hospitals last March 25.

Guard Force Keeps Order At Henderson

HENDERSON, N. C. (UPI) — National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets cleared the streets before the gates of the Harriet-Henderson cotton mills Wednesday during a picket line demonstration by jeering strikers.

Workers entered and left the mills without incident.

A guard task force of 450 men under Lt. Col. B. A. Peterson was dispatched here Tuesday to stamp out violence in the six-month-old strike. Gov. Luther H. Hodges ordered in the guard when local officers were unable to maintain order after the withdrawal of some 100 state troopers from strike duty.

There was a mild demonstration Tuesday night as the guardsmen arrived at the mills. Five persons later were arrested on undisclosed charges. Officials of the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO) strongly objected to Hodges' calling out the guard.

Julius Fry of Greensboro, international representative of the TWUA, said there were no plans for new negotiations and there appeared "no end in sight" to the strike.

Twining Improving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is making "very satisfactory progress" after a lung operation, the Pentagon announced Wednesday.

Three AF Jets Crash Into Sea, Killing Pilots

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (UPI) — Three Air Force F100 Super Sabrejets crashed one after the other, apparently in follow the leader fashion, into the sea early Wednesday killing the pilot of each plane in the precision formation.

An eyewitness, another pilot flying in a nearby aircraft, said the three planes struck the water while in a turn, low over the Atlantic Ocean off Mytle Beach.

The pilot reported he saw the three planes "descending rapidly" in the high-speed turn formation, and that they followed one another into the ocean.

Rescue units searching at the scene confirmed the pilots perished, the Air Force said.

"There was no reported evidence of a collision preceding the surface impact," the Air Force said. "The aircraft were reported to have exploded on contact with the water."

The pilots were identified as Capt. Mack Bulger, 30, of Oklahoma City, Okla.; 1st Lt. Delano D. Lund, 26, of Baker, Mont.; and 1st Lt. Morris L. Uden, 29, of Buffalo, Kan.

All three were attached to the 355th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, were married and resided at Myrtle Beach.

The planes were on a night navigation and refueling mission when the crashes occurred at 3:08 a.m. e.d.t.

'Most Wanted' Fugitive Seized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI announced the arrest at El Paso, Tex., Wednesday night of Emmett Bernard Kervan, 51, one of its "10 most wanted fugitives" who was sought on charges of robbing an East Norwalk, Conn., bank last Feb. 5.

FBI agents arrested Kervan at 9:21 p.m. e.d.t., in a garage apartment. He was in his pajamas at the time and was unarmed.

Kervan had been sought for the $29,445 robbery of a branch of the Merchants Bank and Trust Co. at East Norwalk.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said that when apprehended Kervan had in his possession $921 in cash and a saving bank book covering deposits of $750.

'Satchmo' Offers To Relax Big 4 Parley With Music

GENEVA (AP) — Trumpeter Louis Daniel (Satchmo) Armstrong blew into town Wednesday and offered to relax the East-West foreign ministers with his red hot music.

"I don't know nothin' about politics," he said, "but if I could get them cats (the ministers) to sit still and listen, well then, daddy, maybe I can relax them a little."

The sun was hot and he mopped his perspiring face.

"Get them cats to relax," he went on, "and daddy, they'll just relax this tension in the world."

A reporter asked Satchmo if he thought Poland and Czechoslovakia should be allowed to sit in the foreign ministers meeting—a thing the Soviets want.

"If it makes them happy and makes us happy," smiled the New Orleans-born jazzman, "then let 'em sit."

Pressed for more definite views, Armstrong replied:

"Daddy, you gettin' me in deep here, deep as a river. You better ask Ike about that."

He said he had faith in American presidents.

"That last one we had—he used to blow a lot of piano," guffawed Armstrong. "You know he tried to cut me one night before he was president."

In jazz talk, to cut means to try to outplay another jazzman. The cat who tried to cut him was a Missouri piano player name of Harry S. Truman.

"Jazz is the old happy music," Satchmo said. "It relaxes them cats behind the Iron Curtain just like it relaxes them here."

Asked what he was doing in Geneva, Satchmo said:

"Blowin', daddy. I'm blowin' two concerts tonight."

No 'Prime Suspects' In Kidnap-Lynching

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The FBI said Wednesday it had no "prime suspects" in the lynch-kidnaping of a 23-year-old Negro charged with the rape of a pregnant white woman.

The bullet-torn body of Mack Charles Parker was pulled from the Pearl River near Bogalusa, La., last week, nine days after masked and gloved raiders dragged him screaming from a jail cell here.

Gromyko Gets Nowhere

All four ministers finally presented their opening speeches, delayed by a dispute over Gromyko's efforts to seat Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia as full negotiators in the conference.

Gromyko persisted Wednesday but got nowhere.

He said Poland and Czechoslovakia, early victims of Nazi aggression, should enter the negotiations now. He declared Western arguments opposing such a step—which include the basic theme that the Big Four alone are responsible for a German settlement—are without foundation.

Herter said the American position on Poland and Czechoslovakia remains unchanged. France and Britain held to the same view.

Gromyko has won limited speaking rights for the Communist East Germans at the conference. The same rights also apply to the West Germans. That was decided Monday.

Western spokesmen announced after the 2-hour, 45-minute meeting in the Palace of Nations that the Western powers will present their package plan Thursday.

Package Plan Terms

This plan, ironed out at a Western conference in Paris last month, links a solution of the Berlin crisis to German unification and a European security agreement. It is understood to provide for uniting Germany by a series of steps under Big Four auspices—and with the help of an all-German committee—over a period of two or three years.

Herter and his Western colleagues stressed in their opening statements, originally scheduled for delivery Tuesday, that the West will not be steamrollered by Soviet diplomatic pressure.

Gromyko, whose drive for seating Poland and Czechoslovakia was at least temporarily stalled, snapped back in a 25-minute speech at what he called "dangerous new rearmament" in Europe.

Gromyko apparently referred to NATO nuclear missile bases. He said the rearmament created a bad atmosphere for the Geneva conference.

The opening speeches, as expected showed the Eastern and Western positions directly opposed.

Gromyko called for conclusion of a German peace treaty as a first step toward normalizing international relations.

Herter stressed the need for all-German elections—of the right of the German people to establish "a government of their own choice for all Germany." He added: "The problem will remain until the entire German people can express their will freely."

Herter, Lloyd, Gromyko Plan Nuclear Talks

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will meet with Soviet Foreign Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Thursday in an attempt to speed up the stalled nuclear test ban talks, it was announced Wednesday.

U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew Berding announced that the three statesmen would take time out from the regular East-West foreign ministers meeting to confer "on the suspension of testing of nuclear weapons" at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. e.d.t.) at Herter's Geneva residence, the Villa Greta.

French representatives will not attend the meeting since France has not been participating in the nuclear talks.

Herter and Lloyd met Wednesday to discuss "the nuclear testing ban conference, progress and what is likely to come up in the future," Berding said.

The two Western minsters were understood to have worked out plans for accelerating the six-months-old nuclear conference.

Authoritative sources said Gromyko first will be asked whether he has the authority to discuss the nuclear test ban problem and then to agree that East - West atomic scientists re-examine the methods they proposed a year ago for detecting illegal nuclear explosions.

23 Hurt When Subway Train Rams Another

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rush-hour subway train, halted when a woman passenger pulled the emergency cord because a blond youth attempted to assault her, was rammed by another train on Wednesday. Twenty - three persons were injured in the collision.

A spokesman at Coney Island Hospital said 15 of the injured were treated in the hospital's emergency room and three were admitted. All were believed to be in fair condition.

The accident occurred in a Brooklyn station where the line is elevated. The first train, bound for Manhattan, was brought to a jolting halt in the station when Lucille Lobianco, 43, yanked the emergency cord.

After the train halted, she told conductor Irwin Dickstein that a youth about 17 years old ripped off her skirt and tried to pull off her undergarments. She screamed for help but there was only an elderly man in the car and she then pulled the emergency cord.

Dickstein called police while the boy and the woman waited.

But nine minutes later, the second train rolled into the station, past an automatic halting device, and rammed the parked train.

Passengers in both eight car BMT line trains were thrown from their seats.

Parts Of Stolen Stamp Collection Reported Found

DUBLIN (UPI)—A company official reported Wednesday that nearly $200,000 worth of rare stamps from a million-dollar collection stolen Saturday had been found in an office filing cabinet.

Paul Singer, managing director of the Shanahan Stamp Auction Co., the largest rare stamp dealers in the world, refused to comment on whether the stamps merely had been misplaced.

Singer had placed the value of the missing collection at $1,200,000. He said the robbery probably was the largest of its kind in history.

The stamps were part of the Lombardo Venezia collection. Shortly after the robbery was discovered, some $14,400 worth was recovered from a dust bin on a Dublin dock.

Mentally-Upset Winters To Enter Private Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Comedian Jonathan Winters, taken into custody for antics on San Francisco's waterfront, will go to a private institution for "rest and quiet," his manager said Wednesday.

"He is wound up and emotionally upset," said his manager, Martin Goodman. "We'll try to find a place where he can get a rest."

Goodman said Winters' wife, Eileen, had talked to the television and night club comic and San Francisco General Hospital doctors and agreed to take their recommendation that he be confined in a private hospital.

Dr. T. E. Alberts, superintendent of the hospital, said the comedian was "quite disturbed" and that staff psychiatrists recommended confinement.

Earlier Winters' manager expressed the opinion that his client was "probably just teasing" with the antics that landed him in the psychiatric ward.

But Dr. William K. Rubrecht, resident psychiatrist at the hospital, reported:

"It doesn't impress us as a joke."

The 32-year-old Winters was handcuffed and taken into custody Tuesday while acting "irrationally" on and about the square-rigged sailing ship "Balclutha," which is tied up at the San Francisco Embarcadero on public display.

Julius Larsen, 79, caretaker of the vessel, called police, who said the moon-faced comedian told them he was John Q from outer space and had been here "for years."

"This boat is a fake," Winters was quoted as saying. "It's got an outboard motor on it."

Senate Group Votes Approval Of Dillon, 16-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved President Eisenhower's nomination of C. Douglas Dillon to the number two position in the State Department.

Dillon's nomination as undersecretary of state cleared the committee by a vote of 16-1, with only Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) in opposition. It now goes to the full Senate for action.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said he hoped to call up the Dillon nomination for floor action Thursday and believed it "will be approved." Long said he would carry his fight against Dillon to the floor.

Approval of the Dillon nomination by the Foreign Relations Committee came after the Senate Labor Committee approved Stuart Rothman to be general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

Both followed a news conference statement by Eisenhower that he detected a motive other than a simple desire to check qualifications in "delaying tactics" applied to his key nominations recently.

A nomination that the President specifically endorsed again Wednesday—Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of commerce—appeared to be stalled at least for the remainder of this week. Chairman Warren L. Magnuson (D-Wash.) of the Senate Commerce Committee said the group planned to hear at least four more witnesses before closing the Strauss hearings.

At Wednesday's hearings, Strauss and columnist Drew Pearson accused each other of lying about a Pearson story on the commerce secretary.

When their sharp exchange died down, James B. Carey, president of the AFL-CIO Electrical Workers Union, accused Strauss of having a "napoleonic complex" and of not being "temperamentally qualified" to head the Commerce Department.

Lama Refugees Safe

MISMARI, India (AP)—Twelve lamas who fled Lhasa monasteries after the mid-March uprising in Tibet against Red China's rule trudged into an Indian government refugee camp here Wednesday. These Buddhist priests were among 92 men and boys who reached the haven after a six-week-long trek. About 7,000 other refugees are heading for the camp from frontier areas.

Two Indicted In Distribution Of Poisoned Fish

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The president of a seafood firm and his foreman were indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday in connection with distribution of poisoned fish which allegedly resulted in the death of a boy and the illness of 200 other persons.

Named as defendants on felony and misdemeanor charges were Daniel DiOrio, president of Universal Seafood Co., and Noel LoCastro, his foreman.

The firm also was named in the indictment handed up to U.S. District Court Judge J. Cullen Ganey, who set bail of $1,000 for DiOrio and $500 for LoCastro.

Health authorities said poisoned flounder had killed 3-year-old Dale Kleinschmidt, Haddon Heights, N. J., and sent 200 other to hospitals last March 25.

Guard Force Keeps Order At Henderson

HENDERSON, N. C. (UPI) — National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets cleared the streets before the gates of the Harriet-Henderson cotton mills Wednesday during a picket line demonstration by jeering strikers.

Workers entered and left the mills without incident.

A guard task force of 450 men under Lt. Col. B. A. Peterson was dispatched here Tuesday to stamp out violence in the six-month-old strike. Gov. Luther H. Hodges ordered in the guard when local officers were unable to maintain order after the withdrawal of some 100 state troopers from strike duty.

There was a mild demonstration Tuesday night as the guardsmen arrived at the mills. Five persons later were arrested on undisclosed charges. Officials of the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO) strongly objected to Hodges' calling out the guard.

Julius Fry of Greensboro, international representative of the TWUA, said there were no plans for new negotiations and there appeared "no end in sight" to the strike.

Twining Improving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is making "very satisfactory progress" after a lung operation, the Pentagon announced Wednesday.

Three AF Jets Crash Into Sea, Killing Pilots

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (UPI) — Three Air Force F100 Super Sabrejets crashed one after the other, apparently in follow the leader fashion, into the sea early Wednesday killing the pilot of each plane in the precision formation.

An eyewitness, another pilot flying in a nearby aircraft, said the three planes struck the water while in a turn, low over the Atlantic Ocean off Mytle Beach.

The pilot reported he saw the three planes "descending rapidly" in the high-speed turn formation, and that they followed one another into the ocean.

Rescue units searching at the scene confirmed the pilots perished, the Air Force said.

"There was no reported evidence of a collision preceding the surface impact," the Air Force said. "The aircraft were reported to have exploded on contact with the water."

The pilots were identified as Capt. Mack Bulger, 30, of Oklahoma City, Okla.; 1st Lt. Delano D. Lund, 26, of Baker, Mont.; and 1st Lt. Morris L. Uden, 29, of Buffalo, Kan.

All three were attached to the 355th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, were married and resided at Myrtle Beach.

The planes were on a night navigation and refueling mission when the crashes occurred at 3:08 a.m. e.d.t.

'Most Wanted' Fugitive Seized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI announced the arrest at El Paso, Tex., Wednesday night of Emmett Bernard Kervan, 51, one of its "10 most wanted fugitives" who was sought on charges of robbing an East Norwalk, Conn., bank last Feb. 5.

FBI agents arrested Kervan at 9:21 p.m. e.d.t., in a garage apartment. He was in his pajamas at the time and was unarmed.

Kervan had been sought for the $29,445 robbery of a branch of the Merchants Bank and Trust Co. at East Norwalk.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said that when apprehended Kervan had in his possession $921 in cash and a saving bank book covering deposits of $750.

'Satchmo' Offers To Relax Big 4 Parley With Music

GENEVA (AP) — Trumpeter Louis Daniel (Satchmo) Armstrong blew into town Wednesday and offered to relax the East-West foreign ministers with his red hot music.

"I don't know nothin' about politics," he said, "but if I could get them cats (the ministers) to sit still and listen, well then, daddy, maybe I can relax them a little."

The sun was hot and he mopped his perspiring face.

"Get them cats to relax," he went on, "and daddy, they'll just relax this tension in the world."

A reporter asked Satchmo if he thought Poland and Czechoslovakia should be allowed to sit in the foreign ministers meeting—a thing the Soviets want.

"If it makes them happy and makes us happy," smiled the New Orleans-born jazzman, "then let 'em sit."

Pressed for more definite views, Armstrong replied:

"Daddy, you gettin' me in deep here, deep as a river. You better ask Ike about that."

He said he had faith in American presidents.

"That last one we had—he used to blow a lot of piano," guffawed Armstrong. "You know he tried to cut me one night before he was president."

In jazz talk, to cut means to try to outplay another jazzman. The cat who tried to cut him was a Missouri piano player name of Harry S. Truman.

"Jazz is the old happy music," Satchmo said. "It relaxes them cats behind the Iron Curtain just like it relaxes them here."

Asked what he was doing in Geneva, Satchmo said:

"Blowin', daddy. I'm blowin' two concerts tonight."

No 'Prime Suspects' In Kidnap-Lynching

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The FBI said Wednesday it had no "prime suspects" in the lynch-kidnaping of a 23-year-old Negro charged with the rape of a pregnant white woman.

The bullet-torn body of Mack Charles Parker was pulled from the Pearl River near Bogalusa, La., last week, nine days after masked and gloved raiders dragged him screaming from a jail cell here.

Gromyko Dominates Geneva Conference

Editor's Note — Max Harrelson, chief AP correspondent at the United Nations, has followed Soviet activities closely ever since the U.N. was formed. He currently heads the AP staff covering the Geneva conference.

By MAX HARRELSON

GENEVA (AP)—The slam-bang tactics of Andrei Gromyko have dominated the Big Four conference so far, even more than Wednesday's opening statements.

The wily Soviet Foreign Minister has called most of the signals. He also stole a march in the social sphere by having each of the Western leaders to luncheon before any of them could invite him.

His tactics are following a familiar pattern. These tactics have been used with considerable success at the United Nations and in Big Power parleys like the present one:

The main idea: Raise snag after snag, then display a willingness to compromise or even back down occasionally, then raise more snags.

The object is to wear down the West and improve the Soviet bargaining position.

After each snarl it always appears that the West came out ahead, but on some issue the Soviets have accumulated enough small gains to add up over the years. That is certainly true of the Soviet campaign to give the Communist countries a bigger role in world affairs.

At this meeting the Soviets have raised a whole series of what appeared to be purely procedural questions.

These include the demand for a circular conference table and the issue of how many chairs the East and West German delegations should have.

On the surface these look like small potatoes. Add them to the Soviet efforts to bring in the two German delegations, the Poles and Czechs—as full participants—and you have a major political issue.

Everyone here agrees that the Soviets don't expect to get all they are asking for, but on the basis of their past gains in pushing for Communist representation it is fair to assume they seek more than publicity.

They won for the East Germans a limited right to speak. In their propaganda they claim much more, even insisting the Germans are full participants.

It is a good bet that the Western powers haven't heard the last of this problem.

Steel Contract Talks Resume

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Steel industry is expected to turn down a union spread-the-work program Thursday when joint contract talks are resumed after a one-day recess.

The negotiators—four from each side—are miles apart on basic contract issues. They have until midnight June 30 to write a new contract covering 500,000 steelworkers and head off a nationwide strike that could easily cost the economy more than one billion dollars.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp., and chief industry negotiator, said the recess was called to give the industry time to prepare its rebuttal.

WVU Junior Found Dead In Apartment

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—The body of Paul C. White, 22, West Virginia University junior from Clarksburg, was found Wednesday in his apartment here.

The cause of his death was not immediately determined but authorities said an autopsy had been performed and it would be several days before the results were known.

However, it was reported that his death may have been caused either by food poisoning or asphyxiation.

White was last seen by a classmate at the University Tuesday at about 9 p.m. His body was found Wednesday morning sprawled in the kitchen of the apartment.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department reported "some improvement" Wednesday in the condition of former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in his fight against pneumonia.

But department press officer Lincoln White said there has been "no significant change in Mr. Dulles' general condition."

Dulles, who is confined to Walter Reed Army Medical Center with cancer, suffered the pneumonia attack last week.

Prison Death Damage Suit Appeal Rejected By Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that a prison superintendent normally is not liable for injuries inflicted by one prisoner on another.

The appellate ruling concerned a $100,000 damage suit brought against superintendent Clement J. Ferling by the parents of a young man fatally beaten by four fellow prisoners at the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

The high court upheld a Baltimore Superior Court ruling dismissing the suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Clark against Ferling, the State Board of Correction and Enos S. Stockbridge, chairman of the board.

The Clarks appealed only the judgment in favor of Ferling. They claimed he was personally liable and did not share the state's sovereign immunity.

William G. Clark was committed to the reformatory last May 17 for violation of probation. He was mortally injured when assaulted in one of the prison dormitories during the night of May 23.

Clark's parents claimed Ferling was negligent in confining him in the same dormitory with men he had previously testified against in court.

But the high court held that the superintendent is a public officer performing quasi-judicial duties involving discretion.

of inflation: "When you take a market basket full of money to the grocery store and bring back your pocketbook filled with groceries."

What of the possibilities for saving money by lessening duplication in the missiles program? Eisenhower said this is of critical concern to his administration and "we cannot duck our responsibility."

But he said there is a question whether it would be cheaper and more efficient to stop some projects in their tracks than to spend more money to see them to completion.

Then there was the matter of the 250 million dollars Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn) contends the Defense Department — and the White House—are wasting by using military personnel as chauffeurs, waiters and the like.

Eisenhower acknowledged that except for his Secret Service chauffeur, all White House drivers are Army men. And the Navy operates a mess in the White House for top officials. The President said he assumes that kind of thing goes on in the Pentagon and on down the line.

"But I imagine this," he added. "If we got these things all done by civilians, you probably would have to pay a lot more money."

Eddie And Liz Will Honeymoon Off Spain Coast

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor honeymooned at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Wednesday, during a stopover en route to Spain. They were enjoying the first solitude of their brand new marriage.

The radiant couple was wed Tuesday in Las Vegas. But they spent their wedding night with 113 other passengers in a jet airliner that sped them to New York from the West Coast.

Their departure time for Spain was indefinite. They have trans-Atlantic flight reservations for Thursday, and tentative reservations for Friday.

"It's my wedding day and I feel wonderful," Liz told newsmen as she landed at Idlewild Airport in a state of timeless bliss. "We didn't sleep a wink. We spent the whole night in the lounge."

When photographers asked the couple to embrace, Liz declined, saying:

"We're saving that for ourselves."

Whereupon, the couple hopped a limousine for the Waldorf-Astoria and their first marital chance to be alone.

The newlyweds expected to be abroad three or four months. They are headed for Barcelona where a honeymoon yacht awaits them. A 10-day cruise up the northeast coast of Spain follows. Later, Miss Taylor plans to make a movie abroad and Fisher expects to appear on television.

Hepbron Again Linked To Carbo, Trotta

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Names of Frankie Carbo and Benny Trotta, identified as sometime associates of Baltimore Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron, came up repeatedly Wednesday at a hearing into charges that Hepbron should be removed from office.

It was testified before Gov. Tawes that:

1. Hepbron backed up Trotta's efforts to have his fight promotion license reinstated in Baltimore in 1958, two years after Gov. McKeldin had ordered it revoked because of suspected connections with criminal elements.

2. Hepbron was on friendly social terms with Trotta and, through him, with Carbo, who has been accused six times of murder and is currently a fugitive from investigation into a New York boxing conspiracy.

C. Awdry Thompson, counsel for the Baltimore City delegation seeking Hepbron's removal, told Gov. Tawes that police files of the unsolved 1952 Antonio Messina murder case in Baltimore contain "voluminous references to both Carbo and Trotta."

Yet, he said, Hepbron told the State Athletic Commission in 1958 that "there is nothing of record at this time with the police department what would indicate Benny to be unfit to hold a (fight promotion) license."

Thompson obtained permission to have selected portions of the Messina murder case files admitted into evidence at the hearing after it resumes Thursday. Gov. Tawes indicated that a session would be held Thursday night also in order to expedite the proceedings which have been underway since Monday.

The city delegation succeeded in admitting into evidence Wednesday portions of a transcript of tapped telephone conversations which purported to show Hepbron's friendship with Trotta and Carbo in 1953 and 1954, when Hepbron was still director of parole and probation for the state.

He became police commissioner in 1955, and has been accused of condoning illegal wiretaps and consorting with persons who have prison records.

Theodore Roosevelt in 1895 authorized the appointment of the first police matrons in New York City.

N & W Stockholders To Vote On Merger

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI)—Stockholders of the Norfolk and Western Railway vote Thursday on a proposed merger with the Virginian Railway.

Virginian stockholders approved the merger proposal April 30 at a meeting in Norfolk. It is still pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under the proposal Virginian stockholders would receive 50 shares of Norfolk and Western common for each 100 shares of Virginian. Preferred stock would be exchanged on a one-for-one basis.

Both lines depend largely on coal for business and contend the merger would form a more efficient rail line between the coal fields of West Virginia and the port of Norfolk.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department reported "some improvement" Wednesday in the condition of former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in his fight against pneumonia.

But department press officer Lincoln White said there has been "no significant change in Mr. Dulles' general condition."

Dulles, who is confined to Walter Reed Army Medical Center with cancer, suffered the pneumonia attack last week.

Prison Death Damage Suit Appeal Rejected By Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that a prison superintendent normally is not liable for injuries inflicted by one prisoner on another.

The appellate ruling concerned a $100,000 damage suit brought against superintendent Clement J. Ferling by the parents of a young man fatally beaten by four fellow prisoners at the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

The high court upheld a Baltimore Superior Court ruling dismissing the suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Clark against Ferling, the State Board of Correction and Enos S. Stockbridge, chairman of the board.

The Clarks appealed only the judgment in favor of Ferling. They claimed he was personally liable and did not share the state's sovereign immunity.

William G. Clark was committed to the reformatory last May 17 for violation of probation. He was mortally injured when assaulted in one of the prison dormitories during the night of May 23.

Clark's parents claimed Ferling was negligent in confining him in the same dormitory with men he had previously testified against in court.

But the high court held that the superintendent is a public officer performing quasi-judicial duties involving discretion.

of inflation: "When you take a market basket full of money to the grocery store and bring back your pocketbook filled with groceries."

What of the possibilities for saving money by lessening duplication in the missiles program? Eisenhower said this is of critical concern to his administration and "we cannot duck our responsibility."

But he said there is a question whether it would be cheaper and more efficient to stop some projects in their tracks than to spend more money to see them to completion.

Then there was the matter of the 250 million dollars Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn) contends the Defense Department — and the White House—are wasting by using military personnel as chauffeurs, waiters and the like.

Eisenhower acknowledged that except for his Secret Service chauffeur, all White House drivers are Army men. And the Navy operates a mess in the White House for top officials. The President said he assumes that kind of thing goes on in the Pentagon and on down the line.

"But I imagine this," he added. "If we got these things all done by civilians, you probably would have to pay a lot more money."

Eddie And Liz Will Honeymoon Off Spain Coast

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor honeymooned at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Wednesday, during a stopover en route to Spain. They were enjoying the first solitude of their brand new marriage.

The radiant couple was wed Tuesday in Las Vegas. But they spent their wedding night with 113 other passengers in a jet airliner that sped them to New York from the West Coast.

Their departure time for Spain was indefinite. They have trans-Atlantic flight reservations for Thursday, and tentative reservations for Friday.

"It's my wedding day and I feel wonderful," Liz told newsmen as she landed at Idlewild Airport in a state of timeless bliss. "We didn't sleep a wink. We spent the whole night in the lounge."

When photographers asked the couple to embrace, Liz declined, saying:

"We're saving that for ourselves."

Whereupon, the couple hopped a limousine for the Waldorf-Astoria and their first marital chance to be alone.

The newlyweds expected to be abroad three or four months. They are headed for Barcelona where a honeymoon yacht awaits them. A 10-day cruise up the northeast coast of Spain follows. Later, Miss Taylor plans to make a movie abroad and Fisher expects to appear on television.

Hepbron Again Linked To Carbo, Trotta

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Names of Frankie Carbo and Benny Trotta, identified as sometime associates of Baltimore Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron, came up repeatedly Wednesday at a hearing into charges that Hepbron should be removed from office.

It was testified before Gov. Tawes that:

1. Hepbron backed up Trotta's efforts to have his fight promotion license reinstated in Baltimore in 1958, two years after Gov. McKeldin had ordered it revoked because of suspected connections with criminal elements.

2. Hepbron was on friendly social terms with Trotta and, through him, with Carbo, who has been accused six times of murder and is currently a fugitive from investigation into a New York boxing conspiracy.

C. Awdry Thompson, counsel for the Baltimore City delegation seeking Hepbron's removal, told Gov. Tawes that police files of the unsolved 1952 Antonio Messina murder case in Baltimore contain "voluminous references to both Carbo and Trotta."

Yet, he said, Hepbron told the State Athletic Commission in 1958 that "there is nothing of record at this time with the police department what would indicate Benny to be unfit to hold a (fight promotion) license."

Thompson obtained permission to have selected portions of the Messina murder case files admitted into evidence at the hearing after it resumes Thursday. Gov. Tawes indicated that a session would be held Thursday night also in order to expedite the proceedings which have been underway since Monday.

The city delegation succeeded in admitting into evidence Wednesday portions of a transcript of tapped telephone conversations which purported to show Hepbron's friendship with Trotta and Carbo in 1953 and 1954, when Hepbron was still director of parole and probation for the state.

He became police commissioner in 1955, and has been accused of condoning illegal wiretaps and consorting with persons who have prison records.

Theodore Roosevelt in 1895 authorized the appointment of the first police matrons in New York City.

N & W Stockholders To Vote On Merger

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI)—Stockholders of the Norfolk and Western Railway vote Thursday on a proposed merger with the Virginian Railway.

Virginian stockholders approved the merger proposal April 30 at a meeting in Norfolk. It is still pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under the proposal Virginian stockholders would receive 50 shares of Norfolk and Western common for each 100 shares of Virginian. Preferred stock would be exchanged on a one-for-one basis.

Both lines depend largely on coal for business and contend the merger would form a more efficient rail line between the coal fields of West Virginia and the port of Norfolk.

Man Duplicates Solar "Flare" Shock Waves

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — Mysterious million-mile-an-hour shock waves thrown out by storms on the sun have been duplicated in the laboratory for the first time, it was announced Wednesday.

The tests may help space travelers of the future avoid hazardous magnetic storms between the planets.

An electrical charge of four billion watts was used to trigger the man-made shock waves by Avco Corp., research scientists.

The superspeed waves were an outgrowth of research in testing nose cones for the nation's intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Avco has major responsibility for solving the re-entry heating problem for Atlas, Titan and Minuteman missiles. Ballistic missiles plummeting from space at high velocity would burn up like meteorites from atmospheric friction if not protected by special nose cones.

Shock waves thrown out by the sun are caused by eruptions of fiery gas that shoot thousands of miles from the solar surface.

These solar storms called "flares" disrupt radio communication on earth when the shock wave reaches here about two days later.

The waves also threaten manned space flight, scientists say, because they intensify the harmful band of radiation or the "Van Allen belt" that circles the earth like a doughnut.

Avco scientists headed by Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, a vice president of the corporation, hope that laboratory production of high-speed shock waves will increase knowledge of the potentially harmful solar storms.

"Astronauts of the future will need to know as much about these magnetic typhoons in space as mariners and aviators need to know about terrestial weather today," says Dr. Kantrowitz.

The Everett scientists used a 30-inch shock tube in which a temperature of 1½ million degrees was achieved to produce the high-velocity wave. Since all known matter would vaporize at this temperature scientists confined a rarefied mass of hydrogen in a magnetic "wall." The magnetic force substituted for material walls that would have been atomized by the extreme heat.

Russians' Space Claims Doubted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A University of Maryland space scientist told Congress Wednesday that if the Russians are as far advanced in space technology as they claim to be they should have put a man in orbit around the earth by now.

At the same time, Dr. Fred Singer predicted the Russians will beat the United States in getting the first man into space.

Singer, a Maryland physics professor and a pioneer in U.S. space, said he would guess that Russia will launch a manned satellite "within months."

He declined to elaborate on his guess. He noted that this country's manned space flight program, isn't expected to try to put a man into orbit for about 18 months.

Testifying before the House Space Committee, Singer said the biggest problem in firing a man into space is reliability of the launching rocket.

Fire Destroys Old Hotel At Salisbury

SALISBURY (AP)—The old Salisbury Hotel, abandoned since early this year, was virtually leveled early Wednesday by a second fire within the last three days.

Fire Marshal Fred Grier Jr. estimated damage from the second fire at $50,000. He said it started in the basement and spread upward. He said the cause probably was either spontaneous combustion or arson.

The old structure had been used as an apartment house until last January, when it was abandoned.

Sparks from the fire, visible for miles, ignited the roof of an apartment house a quarter-mile away, but the new blaze was quickly snubbed out.

The building was owned by C.T. Jenkins, retired Salisbury contractor.

Approximately 40 per cent of the teachers in America are said to have no college degree.

176,446,000 Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The population of the United States was 176,446,000 on April 1, the Census Bureau estimated Tuesday. This was 3,071,000 or 1.8 per cent higher than on April 1, 1958.

Methodist Conference Will Open Today

SALISBURY (AP)—The Peninsula Annual Conference of the Methodist Church—the first here since 1948—opens Thursday with the traditional observance of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Officiating will be Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, administrator of the Washington area.

After a memorial service, the first conference business session will get underway at 11 a.m. with the four Peninsula Annual Conference superintendents reporting on their districts.

Dr. John N. Link of the Wilmington district retires after presenting the last of his six annual reports. The Rev. R. Jervis Cooke of Trinity Methodist Church, Salisbury, has been named to succeed him.

Balloting for delegates to general and jurisdictional conferences next spring will begin before the lunch recess. Six will be elected to represent the Peninsula Methodists at the General Conference at Denver. Four others will join the six to make up the delegation to the Jurisdictional Conference in Washington.

The delegations will be half clerical and half lay.

Cops To Undergo Obesity Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police officials here have ordered a program designed to separate men plantings 66 to 1 and 89 per cent.

Deputy Police Chief Howard V. Covell who issued the order said about 10 of his own 202 pounds probably will be declared surplus.

Members of the Police Department's higher echelons, he said, may also be brought under the weight control program.

Apple Growers Shifting Varieties

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Washington apple growers are shifting rapidly from Standard Delicious to Golden and Red Delicious varieties, a survey shows.

Winesap and Rome Beauty plantings also are increasing, while Jonathan acreage is decreasing.

The Washington Crop and Livestock Reporting Service compiled the information from reports of growers.

It said Golden Delicious plantings last year exceeded removals by 73 to 1 and Red Delicious by 7 to 1. Only 24 per cent of the Golden and 44 per cent of the Red Delicious trees removed were of bearing age.

In contrast, removals of standard Delicious trees exceeded plantings 6 6to 1 and 89 per cent of standard Delicious trees removed were of bearing age.

Winesap plantings exceeded removals 18 to 1 and Rome Beautys about 2 to 1. But Jonathan Removals ran 19 to 1 against plantings.

Beall Opposes Cut In Commission Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) urged a Senate subcommittee Wednesday to restore one million dollars to the 1960 budget of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

He testified at an appropriations subcommittee hearing on funds for the Interior Department and related agencies.

"Prince Georges County stands ready to match the federal share with an equal amount of its own funds," Beall said.

Uncle Sam's Help Wanted Sign Out For Blue-Collar Workers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are you pretty good at driving a pack animal?

Can you repair a mattress? Make a sail? Fit a pipe? Repair a shoe last? Kill and skin a seal?

If the answer is yes, your government needs you, boy.

Probably most of you, when you think of going to work for the mighty federal government, have some such mental picture as this:

A man busily pushing buttons, sitting there making big decisions, or, better yet, sitting there making no decisions. . . a woman typing, filing, hiding papers.

But a booklet wandered in Tuesday that showed how incomplete this vision is.

Its title: "Occupations of the Federal Blue-Collar Workers." And while the booklet never defines exactly what a blue-collar worker is, it gets its point across by taking 27 pages just to list the various blue collar jobs.

Everybody knows we taxpayers hire white-collar workers by the hundreds of thousands. But did you know we hire 705,625 blue-collar workers, too?

The range of the jobs is astonishing.

Take driving a pack animal. Agriculture hires 36 drivers.

A white-collar lady over in the forestry section said pack animals still come in handy for toting materials on insect control jobs.

Pipefitters we need in abundance — 18,145 of them. But even this vast government can't find much of a demand for mattress fixers (only two) or shoe last repairmen (four).

Even in this age of atomic submarines, the Navy hires 312 sailmakers.

Those seal skinners, 101 of them, work with the seals we taxpayers own in the Pribilof Islands.

Some of the jobs show the relentless march of what we call, for lack of a better word, progress . . . 36 doing something called "experimental rocket sled mechanical servicing." . . . 4,274 repairing jet engines . . . 44 overhauling helicopters.

It's the odd jobs, though, that stick in your mind.

The seven governmental dough mixers, for example. They don't work for the Treasury, as you might suspect, but for the Army. The five who work as shrink pit operators. The 14 who are master mates on snag boats.

And it's pleasant to report that the government recognizes the most American of all jobs.

Veterans Administration hospitals hire 207 soda jerkers.

Britain Takes Calculated Risk In Arming Iraq

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Great Britain, by agreeing to modernize the Iraqi army, is gambling that Gen. Abdel Karim Kassem will be willing and able to defend himself and her oil against either the Communists or the Nasserites.

The move has been assessed on both sides of the ocean as a calculated risk which the British, skilled in Iraqi politics, believe worth taking.

Communists already have infiltrated the Kassem government to a large degree. There is a possibility that they can do the same in the army, and eventually take it away from Kassem if he choses a showdown.

Nasserite elements already have staged revolts in northern Iraq and armed Russian-Kurds have been exported by Moscow to aggravate this situation by further disturbances.

There is always the possibility that one of these elements might one day seize the arms and the army and use them against Middle Eastern friends of the West after forcing Iraq into the Soviet sphere.

The British also are gambling with their newly improved relations with Egypt, which have brought about negotiations in several fields for renewal of their traditional commercial relations.

Cairo propaganda already is taking the line that military help for Iraq represents a kind of revenge for Suez.

On the other side of the picture is the knowledge that if Britain does not continue furnishing arms, which the Iraqi's prefer because they are accustomed to them, Kassem will be forced to turn to the Communist bloc.

The next logical step after that, from Kassem's standpoint, would be to nationalize the oil wells now operated by foreign interests, primarily British, in order to pay Moscow. That would be a blow felt throughout the West.

Kassem's attitude toward the Western oil concessions undoubtedly has played a great part in the British arms decision.

BEST "FOREIGN" ACTRESS—For being the best foreign actress of 1958, as far as the Italians are concerned, Marilyn Monroe received Italy's highest film honor, the David di Donatello award, in New York yesterday. The head of the Italian Cultural Institute in New York, Dr. Filippo Donini, made the presentation at the institute as Italian actress Anna Magnani (right) looked on. (AP Photofax)

France Displays Evidence Of Tough, Independent Thinking

By DAVID MASON

GENEVA (AP) — France is showing evidence of tough and sometimes independent thinking in the current foreign ministers talks.

In the time of the Fourth Republic French delegations, rarely sure how long their governments would last, were relatively quiet at East-West conferences. They took back seats.

President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic is different.

De Gaulle is working to advance his reborn nation into a position of new respect in international councils.

His scholarly Foreign Secretary, Maurice Couve de Murville, has already made it clear that France is at once the least flexible and least optimistic of the Western Big Three at Geneva.

This could spell trouble in Western ranks as the talks with the Soviet Union progress.

On at least two occasions France has shown she is doing her own thinking at Geneva:

1. When Couve de Murville arrived here Saturday he took the least rosy view of any of his colleagues on conference prospects. He mentioned formidable difficulties and said nothing would be worse than the West granting concessions which could provoke new Soviet demands.

Moscow singled out Couve de Murville's statement for retort, and accused him of trying to torpedo the conference.

2. When the Soviets sought to ram through equal representation for East Germany at the conference table, the United States, Britain and France immediately resisted. But France was ready to go farther than her Western partners. The French delegation let it be known France would favor a walkout if the East Germans moved up to the main conference table with the same status as the Big Four.

The question was resolved without any such theatrics. But no one doubted that the French would have gone through with their threat if the matter had not been smoothed over.

Engineers To Visit

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia announced Wednesday that it would send a delegation of hydro-electric engineers to the United States this year to study American power development.

Soviet Minister of Power and Construction Nikolai Novikov told a news conference that the Soviet Union did not anticipate buying power equipment from foreign firms, but added that it was possible the Russians might purchase "samples" of the better equipment.

He said he hoped the Soviet engineers would be accorded a friendly reception by Americans and would have a good chance to study achievements in power development.

"Automatic Highway Of Future" Unveiled By GM's Researchers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A scale model of an "automatic highway of the future" was unveiled Tuesday by General Motors research laboratories.

The "auto - control system" would make it possible to drive from New York to Chicago with only occasional use of the steering wheel, accelerator or brake, GM spokesmen said.

The firm also displayed its Firebird III, a gas turbine car equipped with "unicontrol" — in which a single lever controls steering, acceleration and braking.

The auto - control system provides, through electronics, automatic steering and a device to speed up or slow down cars, depending on traffic conditions and obstacles.

In addition, warning lights signal conventional cars when auto-control vehicles are in an "automatic lane."

The system, demonstrated for highway experts and newsmen here, was a one-fortieth scale model simulating a four-lane divided highway. Four miniature buses rolled around the oval track.

Auto-control vehicles follow a "magnetic path" created by low-frequency electrical current from a cable embedded in the road. An electronic computer takes signals from the cable and "steers" the car.

The cable also provides a way to measure car speed. Other circuits regulate the speed of all automatic cars to assure safe spacing.

Design Completed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet technicians have completed the design for the first section of the Aswan High Dam to be built on the Nile by the United Arab Republic with Soviet technical and financial aid, it was announced Wednesday.

Ignati Novikov, minister of power and construction, told a news conference that "no capitalist country was prepared to help the Arab people unselfishly in the construction of the dam; only the Soviet Union."

Kills Child

AMAGASAKI, Japan (UPI)—A 33-year-old housewife, Eiko Endo, confessed suffocating a 2-year-old girl who cried when the women tried to steal a $1 sweater the infant was wearing, police reported Wednesday.

Tiny Vanguard Earth Satellite Photographed

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's Vanguard I earth satellite has been photographed 25,000 miles out in space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency said Tuesday the picture was made from the Smithsonian optical tracking station at Woomera, Australia.

It compared the feat with photographing a golf ball 600 miles away from a camera.

"No other object as small as this six-inch sphere ever has been photographed from such a distance," a NASA announcement reported.

The space agency said a Baker-Nunn precision satellite tracking camera was used by personnel at the Woomera missile range to photograph the earth satellite on three occasions—May 1, 3 and 4.

The tracking camera is one of 12 located around the world and especially designed for tracking earth satellites during the International Geophysical Year.

The Vanguard I, developed by the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory was launched March 17, 1958. It has a perigee—low point—of 402 miles and an apogee—high point—of 25,000 miles.

Rebel Leader Ill

MANILA (UPI) — Emilio Aguinaldo, 92, leader of the Philippine insurrection against Spain and the United States at the turn of the century, has been hospitalized for treatment of high blood pressure and edema, his physicians reported Wednesday.

Aguinaldo was taken to the De Ocampo Memorial Hospital because of a "proxysmal rise in blood pressure, edema (swelling) in the lower extremity and insomnia." Visitors were barred.

Even The Queen

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Office boy Anders Frey was very sorry, he told the ladies, but he had strict orders not to allow any outsiders into the new offices of a local news agency.

Frey did not recognize Queen Louise of Sweden, even when she told him: "My husband has been here." King Gustav Adolf toured the offices when they opened last month.

A passing reporter, however, did and quickly overruled Frey. The Queen and her attendants were taken on a conducted tour of the agency.

President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic is different.

De Gaulle is working to advance his reborn nation into a position of new respect in international councils.

His scholarly Foreign Secretary, Maurice Couve de Murville, has already made it clear that France is at once the least flexible and least optimistic of the Western Big Three at Geneva.

This could spell trouble in Western ranks as the talks with the Soviet Union progress.

On at least two occasions France has shown she is doing her own thinking at Geneva:

1. When Couve de Murville arrived here Saturday he took the least rosy view of any of his colleagues on conference prospects. He mentioned formidable difficulties and said nothing would be worse than the West granting concessions which could provoke new Soviet demands.

Moscow singled out Couve de Murville's statement for retort, and accused him of trying to torpedo the conference.

2. When the Soviets sought to ram through equal representation for East Germany at the conference table, the United States, Britain and France immediately resisted. But France was ready to go farther than her Western partners. The French delegation let it be known France would favor a walkout if the East Germans moved up to the main conference table with the same status as the Big Four.

The question was resolved without any such theatrics. But no one doubted that the French would have gone through with their threat if the matter had not been smoothed over.

Engineers To Visit

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia announced Wednesday that it would send a delegation of hydro-electric engineers to the United States this year to study American power development.

Soviet Minister of Power and Construction Nikolai Novikov told a news conference that the Soviet Union did not anticipate buying power equipment from foreign firms, but added that it was possible the Russians might purchase "samples" of the better equipment.

He said he hoped the Soviet engineers would be accorded a friendly reception by Americans and would have a good chance to study achievements in power development.

"Automatic Highway Of Future" Unveiled By GM's Researchers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A scale model of an "automatic highway of the future" was unveiled Tuesday by General Motors research laboratories.

The "auto - control system" would make it possible to drive from New York to Chicago with only occasional use of the steering wheel, accelerator or brake, GM spokesmen said.

The firm also displayed its Firebird III, a gas turbine car equipped with "unicontrol" — in which a single lever controls steering, acceleration and braking.

The auto - control system provides, through electronics, automatic steering and a device to speed up or slow down cars, depending on traffic conditions and obstacles.

In addition, warning lights signal conventional cars when auto-control vehicles are in an "automatic lane."

The system, demonstrated for highway experts and newsmen here, was a one-fortieth scale model simulating a four-lane divided highway. Four miniature buses rolled around the oval track.

Auto-control vehicles follow a "magnetic path" created by low-frequency electrical current from a cable embedded in the road. An electronic computer takes signals from the cable and "steers" the car.

The cable also provides a way to measure car speed. Other circuits regulate the speed of all automatic cars to assure safe spacing.

Design Completed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet technicians have completed the design for the first section of the Aswan High Dam to be built on the Nile by the United Arab Republic with Soviet technical and financial aid, it was announced Wednesday.

Ignati Novikov, minister of power and construction, told a news conference that "no capitalist country was prepared to help the Arab people unselfishly in the construction of the dam; only the Soviet Union."

Kills Child

AMAGASAKI, Japan (UPI)—A 33-year-old housewife, Eiko Endo, confessed suffocating a 2-year-old girl who cried when the women tried to steal a $1 sweater the infant was wearing, police reported Wednesday.

Tiny Vanguard Earth Satellite Photographed

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's Vanguard I earth satellite has been photographed 25,000 miles out in space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency said Tuesday the picture was made from the Smithsonian optical tracking station at Woomera, Australia.

It compared the feat with photographing a golf ball 600 miles away from a camera.

"No other object as small as this six-inch sphere ever has been photographed from such a distance," a NASA announcement reported.

The space agency said a Baker-Nunn precision satellite tracking camera was used by personnel at the Woomera missile range to photograph the earth satellite on three occasions—May 1, 3 and 4.

The tracking camera is one of 12 located around the world and especially designed for tracking earth satellites during the International Geophysical Year.

The Vanguard I, developed by the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory was launched March 17, 1958. It has a perigee—low point—of 402 miles and an apogee—high point—of 25,000 miles.

Rebel Leader Ill

MANILA (UPI) — Emilio Aguinaldo, 92, leader of the Philippine insurrection against Spain and the United States at the turn of the century, has been hospitalized for treatment of high blood pressure and edema, his physicians reported Wednesday.

Aguinaldo was taken to the De Ocampo Memorial Hospital because of a "proxysmal rise in blood pressure, edema (swelling) in the lower extremity and insomnia." Visitors were barred.

Even The Queen

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Office boy Anders Frey was very sorry, he told the ladies, but he had strict orders not to allow any outsiders into the new offices of a local news agency.

Frey did not recognize Queen Louise of Sweden, even when she told him: "My husband has been here." King Gustav Adolf toured the offices when they opened last month.

A passing reporter, however, did and quickly overruled Frey. The Queen and her attendants were taken on a conducted tour of the agency.

Drunks May Be Given City Work

Habitual law violators of the Cumberland area were given a warning yesterday by Police Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

Magistrate Weatherholt, who assumed the duties of local magistrate on May 4, said from the bench yesterday that he has observed that Cumberland is running a "Hotel For Drunks."

The magistrate stated that he is strongly considering plans to put Cumberland's "habituals" to work while they are spending their time in jail.

A check of the "Sleeper Docket" at Police Headquarters yesterday revealed that the city averages at least one sleeper in the City Jail a night. The "sleepers" are persons who turn themselves in at the Police Station for a night's lodging.

A check of the docket showed most of the sleepers are people traveling through Cumberland—however, a large number of known drunks are on the docket.

Magistrate Weatherholt said yesterday that under the City Code the magistrate is allowed to order violators to work in default of fines.

The Code states: "The Justice may, in default of payment of a fine or fines imposed for violations commit a person or persons so defaulting to confinement in the City Prison or he may require such person or persons to work out such fines and costs upon the streets or other improvements of the city. Such persons to be allowed as a credit on such fines and costs the same wages as are paid other employes of the city for the same class or character of work."

Magistrate Weatherholt said his idea is to order the habituals to work cleaning up the streets and other similar jobs in the city, instead of allowing them to stay in the city jail.

The magistrate observed that similar plans are working with good results in sections of nearby West Virginia and Garrett County.

Domenick is a graduate of Piedmont High School and the Maryland School of Accounting. He has also attended Eastern University and completed a management course at the University of Baltimore.

A member of the Baltimore Chapter of the National Office Management Association, Domenick formerly was assistant managing director and field representative of the Maryland Credit Union League.

Larry Mooney First School Marble Champ

Larry Mooney, 11, a fifth grader at Columbia Street School, is the first representative chosen for the city marbles championship to be staged the week of May 25.

Young Mooney, who resides with an aunt, Mrs. Nola V. Zimerla, 116 Independence Street, will compete against champions from 16 other schools for the right to go to the national finals at Asbury Park next month.

School are conducting eliminations on an individual basis and it is hoped to have most of the champions crowned by Friday, weather permitting, C. Eugene Mason, recreation director said.

Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant rec director, said eliminations have been scheduled next Monday at SS. Peter and Paul School at 2:45 p. m., according to information supplied by Sister Hilda, principal.

Sister Herman Joseph, principal of St. Mary's School, said eliminations will be held there Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

Handling the two tournaments will be J. William Hunt, a member of the executive committee of the National Marbles Tournament and retired editor of The Sunday Times; Dorothy Heavener, Mae Smith and Mrs. Hogan.

The boys' committee of the Cumberland Lions Club, headed by Rev. A. C. Prevatte, will sponsor the local winner at Asbury Park.

Foley Predicts C&O Canal Bill To Pass This Session

Passage of a C&O Canal park bill at the present session of Congress has been predicted by Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md.) on the basis of a vote by the District of Columbia Commissioners which Foley claims 'may remove barriers' from passage of the controversial issue.

His optimism was expressed during a luncheon at which the congressman was host to the Montgomery County delegation to the Maryland Assembly.

Foley said he had seen a copy of a letter addressed by Commissioner Robert E. McLaughlin to Rep. Wayne Aspinall (D-Colo.), chairman of the House Interior Committee.

This said, according to Foley, that the Commissioners by a 2-1 vote had agreed to his proposed bill H.R. 2331, provided two amendments were added.

One would add the words "water supply" to a section which provides that National Park status shall not limit Congress' right to authorize use of the canal lands "for improvement and extension of navigation, or for flood control, or irrigation, or drainage, or for the development of hydroelectric power or other purposes."

The second proposed amendment states that expenditures for park installations and improvements between River Bend and Brunswick, shall be made only after determination by the Interior Secretary that they are "reasonably justified" by benefits expected to accrue prior to the time when the land "might be required" for a water supply impoundment.

It also would require that the Interior Secretary "consult" at least once a year with the Secretary of the Army and the commissioners regarding his plans.

Conservationists have given support to Foley's H. R. 2331 in its original form. The congressman said he had received assurances from Sigurd Olson, president of the National Parks Association, that conservationists would still favor this bill, with the proposed amendments added.

Foley said he had talked to Aspinall and to Rep. Gracie Pfost (D-Idaho), chairman of the subcommittee on Public Lands, "and both are now hopeful that a compromise agreement is now available for establishment of the national park."

Engineer Commissioner A. C. Welling cast the dissenting vote when the Commissioners met in executive session to reconsider their original stand, Foley said.

Youths State Reasons For Escaping Camp

Eleven juveniles have escaped from State Forestry Camps in this area within the past week, and law enforcement agencies are puzzled as to the reason for the number of escapees.

However, during an interview yesterday in the Frostburg City Jail, three youths, apprehended Tuesday night, outlined their side of the story and why they walked away from the camp at New Germany.

The youths, James K. Ryan, 17, Baltimore; Franklin Lee Benton, 17, Baltimore, and Daniel W. Thomas, 17, Westminster, were arrested Tuesday by State Trooper Donald Wade on U.S. Route 40 in Garrett County.

Yesterday the youths said they left the camp because they were being beaten by older boys at the New Germany site. Two of the boys were bruised and had cuts about their faces and arms.

The boys said they weren't running away, but were attempting to get back to the Maryland Training School for Boys in Baltimore, where they feel "conditions are much better."

The boys said that Tuesday the older youths beat them while they were riding in a truck along a county road.

The boys informed police that the older boys have been at the camp five and six months and that they are "taking over." One boy said recently an older youth was beating a smaller boy in the dorm at night and that he stopped, turned around and asked "Anybody feel sorry for him?" The boy said the youth then resumed the beating.

The three youths in the Frostburg Jail Tuesday asked authorities after their arrest not to send them back to camp. They said they preferred the Training School or jail to the forestry camp.

One boy informed a reporter yesterday that he had only a couple of weeks to serve until his release. He said "I wasn't running away, but didn't want any more beatings."

Philip Axman, supervisor of the camp, was away and unavailable for comment on the situation.

Since last Thursday the Maryland State Police at LaVale have been notified of 11 escapees. Six of the youths are back in custody, while five are still listed at large.

Johnson Heights School Program Set Tomorrow

Parents of the festival 'royalty' are Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, 619 Montgomery Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Saville, 520 Caroline Street.

The king and queen will be crowned by Paul M. Arbogast, principal of Johnson Heights, and Sonya McDonald will be crownbearer. Attendants in the queen's court will be:

Paula Arbogast and Richard Lashley, Dianne Bailey and Wayne Hill, Karen Judd and William Rowley, Sherry Proudfoot and William Robey, Nancy Callis and William Pratt, Deanne Ullery and Thomas Rees.

Christine Carroll and Dale Smith, Sandra Robinson and Jay Oliver, Gail Downey and Gary Wilson, Linda Cunningham and Dennis Tipton, Kay Bartik and Daniel Sathoff, Linda Brown and Kenneth Wilson, Catherine Metheney and William Wharton, Ilene Arbogast and William Taylor and Jean Yost and Steven Hidey.

Sixth grade pupils will lead the grand march and form a guard of honor for the queen and her court. The program will include dances by grades one through five, with the third graders performing the traditional maypole dance.

Supper will be served in the school cafeteria at 5:30 p. m. and also after the entertainment program.

SRC Studies Review Boards

BALTIMORE (AP) — A State Roads Commission official is going to visit each county in Maryland to try to make operation of local property review boards more equitable and efficient.

SRC Chairman John J. McMullen said the goal is to streamline the processing of acquiring rights-of-way so that operation of the boards will provide land more quickly and at less cost than through court condemnation.

During the first 2½ years of operation by the boards, McMullen reported, they awarded $7,711,000 in 826 cases, almost 2½ million dollars more than had been posted by the state. And at the end of the period last December, 461 condemnation cases were still pending in Circuit Court.

McMullen said highway officials have agreed — with concurrence of Gov. Tawes — to give the boards another year of operation. But he emphasized a continuing effort must be made to reduce the backlog of pending cases.

City Seeking Engineering Aide

The Mayor and Council has prepared to advertise for applicants for the position of assistant city engineer for streets, parks and planning.

Applications will be received until 5 p. m. Monday, June 15 at the office of the city clerk, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

Requirements include: The applicant must be over 50 years of age; must be a graduate from an acceptable college, with a degree in civil engineering with two years' experience in civil engineering; experience in administration, supervision over men, maintenance work planning, job assignment and plan and design of streets and parks is desirable.

Salary range will be from $6,000 to $7,500 annually and the applicant if appointed must be able to pass a physical examination conducted by the city physician.

Residence requirements for the position have been waived.

Applicants accepted will be notified of the time, date and place of examination by the Civil Service Commission.

Underwriters To Meet

The Cumberland Underwriters Association will meet Friday at the Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m. to hear George Aldom, Frostburg, discuss a training course.

GIVEN POST — Arthur A. Vickers (above), of 517 National Highway, Tuesday was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. Vickers, a civil engineer, is in charge of the local office of the U. S. Geological Water Survey which keeps data on streams in this area.

Officer Convicted

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—A former intelligence officer of the Republic of Korea army has been convicted for espionage activities for the North Korean Communists and sentenced to death, it was announced Wednesday.

Lt. Col. Yoon Chang Hee, former officer of the 27th ROK Division, was found guilty by the Central High Military Court of crossing into North Korea in 1955 and giving South Korean military information to the Reds.

Standing Room Only

LONDON (UPI) — Radio Peiping said Wednesday that movies taken by the Chinese Communists of the suppression of the Tibetan revolt were drawing packed houses in Peiping. The broadcast said more than 320,000 persons had seen the pictures.

Two-Hulled Ship

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow Radio said Wednesday a double-hulled ship had been developed by the Russians to carry hot ore in its hold.

Usually the ore is delivered at the pier at temperatures of over 1,200 degrees (Fahrenheit) then cooled to 160 degrees before loading. The broadcast said an inner hull, completely insulated from the main body of the ship, permitted the ore to be loaded hot.

Special screens protect the crews' quarters on the ship which is operating at Odessa, the broadcast said.

Thomas Jefferson invented the swivel chair.

The United States and Britain are among the few nations which have not accepted metric measurements.

Two Sentenced In Larceny

Two local men, who were tried in Trial Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon on charges of larceny, were given suspended sentences of 30 days in Allegany County jail and told to make restitution by Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti.

Frank Crowe, city, was arrested earlier in the afternoon in connection with the theft of a tire and wheel, six-volt battery and oil cap from Thrifty Auto Sales, 305 South Centre Street.

The other man involved in the case, Dewey Emerick, 19 West First Street, surrendered at police headquarters. They were taken to court by City Police Detective Thomas J. See, who said the property was valued at $37.99.

Emerick pleaded guilty to the larceny charge and Crowe pleaded not guilty, although he admitted taking the tire and giving it to a friend.

Detective See said the two men went to the used car lot about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday and were allowed to drive one of the cars off the lot to try it out. When the car was returned about 1 a.m. yesterday the tire and wheel, battery and oil cap were reported missing.

Gray Receives

Line Inn along Bedford Road in nearby Pennsylvania. Later, she and Cover drove back to Cumberland and stopped along Shade's Lane when she said she became ill. It was there that Gray and Iser came upon Cover's car, smashed the window with the butt of a shotgun, struck Cover with it and robbed him of $350, she testified.

Mrs. Johnson said she got out of Cover's car and into Gray's automobile. Gray and Mrs. Johnson returned to Baltimore the following day and were arrested there together September 13.

Victim Testifies

The victim of the robbery then was called to the stand and related the same events of September 11.

Others called to the stand were called to corroborate some phases of Mrs. Johnson's testimony. For instance, Francis "Whitey" Davis testified that he saw two men in a car bearing Maryland license numbers AL 49-24 pull away from the Virginia Avenue restaurant and follow the Cover car to Centre and Frederick streets, where it turned onto Frederick Street, the route to the State Line Inn.

Next witness, John Stankan, operator of the State Line Inn, identified Gray as among about 60 patrons at his place of business in the early hours of September 11. He recalled that Gray laid his head on the bar. City Police Officer James Brown testified that he received a complaint of the Cover robbery and on searching at the Shade's Lane scene found a recoil pad and several small pieces of wood. These he turned over to State Trooper John W. McFarland when it was discovered that the location was about 100 to 150 yards outside the city limits.

Trooper Called

Trooper McFarland, the next witness, related how he found a man's diamond ring which turned out to belong to Cover. Carl Edward Robinette, Bedford Road, an employe of the C&A Gas Company, then testified that he first observed a single-barrel shotgun in the 1300 block Bedford Street about 10 a.m. September 11. He kicked the gun off the roadbed, and returned about 3 p.m. the same day with Sgt. William F. Baker of State Police and recovered the gun, which lacked a recoil pad and had been broken. Mrs. Johnson had testified earlier that the shotgun had been tossed out of the car.

Sgt. Baker, called next to the stand, identified the license numbers AL 49-24 as having been issued to Mr. and Mrs. Gray. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya showed how the recoil pad and wood fragments found on Shade's Lane fitted the gun found on Bedford Street about a mile away. He said the gun belonged to Iser.

Deputy Clerk Called

Final witness was a man who sits through man trials but seldom is called to testify. Mr. McDonald, the deputy clerk, was called upon to read the court docket entry which showed that Iser had been sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary last October 17.

Only witness called by the defense was Mrs. Johnson. Mr. Naughton got her to read two letters which she had written to Gray while both were confined in the County Jail. In one letter she stated that Gray was at the Beall Street residence when she arrived there after the robbery. When questioned by Judge Harris she said she was threatened when she wrote the letter that she might face a charge to be brought by Gray's wife. She asserted that the contents of this letter were false.

All four attorneys participated in the closing argument to the jury which took nearly one and one half hours to complete.

The defense attorneys laid great stress on Judge Harris' instruction that the testimony of an accomplice must be corroborated by some other witness before it can be accepted. Mr. Getty contended that the other evidence did corroborate what Mrs. Johnson had said.

Firemen Get Truck Training

A training course for chauffeurs and tillermen on the huge aerial ladder truck at Central Fire Company is being held for replacements and new members of the Fire Department, Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday.

Assistant Fire Chief Robert C. Long is conducting the aerial truck training along with continuance of the basic training course for all firemen under supervision of the University of Maryland Extension Course.

This basic training course has been conducted for the past six weeks and is being given by Chief Long who is a certified instructor.

Chief Parker said yesterday the aerial ladder truck course consists of training two men as a team to operate the truck as driver and tillerman.

They are taught how to operate the ladder, are made familiar with tools and equipment on the truck and work with an officer while practicing the handling of the truck.

Each crew, consisting of two men and an officer, works several hours each Sunday as well as one other day during the week in taking the training course. The course will be continued for at least another two weeks.

The chief said the training is being conducted for new members and others not qualified to replace several qualified men who have left the department and to check on the older men periodically in the operation of the huge truck.

At present there are eight men being trained to relieve present crews on the aerial truck, Chief Parker stated.

The basilica of St. Peter's in Rome covers 3.7 acres.

A New Species Of Politician?

An article on "Oregon's Golden Boy" in the Saturday Evening Post unwittingly poses the question: Is a new species of politician emerging?

It tells of the amazing success of a 36-year-old Republican in a state that is predominantly Democratic, judging by the ascendancy of Morse and Neuberger. At the other end of the country is seen the parallel feat of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York in a state which often goes Democratic. The parallel is mentioned in the story.

Both these young men adopted the "me too" line, unblushingly espousing policies of the New Deal classification as seemed expedient. Probably many observers have jumped to the conclusion that this double phenomenon proves the leftward slant has gained a permanent place in American policies and that those who oppose it may as well quietly fold their tents and steal away into the limbo of forgotten things.

Actually, in both cases personal popularity was unquestionably the prime factor. These Days

A Case In Point

The hospital strike in New York is a case in point. The employers of labor, in this instance, are a number of non-profit hospitals that exist out of the charity of the people. Some of them expend part of their income on experimental work for the welfare of mankind. Much of the professional work done in hospitals is free of cost, being part of the education and the continued training of the physicians. (Interns and residents receive some compensation.) Nurses, who are of much medical and psychological importance, are becoming scarce because the work is difficult and at times unbearable and the pay is poor.

The non-professional workers in hospitals are a varied crew, consisting of elevator operators, cooks, kitchen maids, scrubwomen, etc., etc. They are all poorly paid. Most of them are unskilled workers.

An attempt is being made to unionize them and to require the hospitals to pay them higher wages. In all the negotiations, up to the moment of writing this article, the emphasis has been on the subject of union recognition. This emphasis is interesting sociologically, because although these workers are underpaid and a way should be found to pay them something more even if that means a reduction in the number of non-professional employees, of whom there are too many in most hospitals, what seems to interest the so-called labor leaders is union membership and the collection of union dues.

There is another side to this picture. It is difficult to get men to serve on the Boards of hospitals and to raise money for them. So many demands are being made these days, that the giving public is growing weary of the demands and appeals and very often the directors of such institutions make up the annual deficits out of their own pockets. A man has to take the row with the unions in his own business, but he does not have to take it in his public charities. A continuation of wrangles between the hospitals and Left-Wing controlled unions will end in men refusing to serve on Boards.

In a city like New York, there are 81 non-profit hospitals. Some of them are enormous, complex institutions, erected over the years out of private charity and maintained by private charity. To those hospitals, the municipality sends certain patients, paying less than it would cost the city to keep them in municipal hospitals.

If all these non-profit hospitals shut down, the city would find the costs prohibitive; the hospital service would deteriorate and the ultimate cost to the patient would be greater because specialists would establish private clinics, such as exist everywhere in Europe for those who can afford to go to them.

What has happened here, in actual operations, is that an obscure labor activist, who took the Fifth Amendment in reply to questions concerning his affiliations with Communism, gets a charter to a local to organize the non-professional hospital workers. Senator McClellan's Committee has been showing how such charters are bought and sold and the corruption involved in this. Whether there has been such activity concerning the non-professional hospital workers, I do not know. But the pattern in recent years is for a top labor boss to regard the possession of such a charter as a private business enterprise.

To assert the existence of such a union, there must be a strike. The strike is, in effect, the only means available to a union to announce itself. Sometimes a strike of this kind is mild, ending in the recognition of the union by the bosses, even before the workers recognize it. That, of course, happened in the negotiations between Myron C. Taylor and John L. Lewis in Florence, Italy, which laid the foundation not only for the steel union but for the C.I.O.

But no union can make terms for the handling of a cancer patient, the birth of a baby, the protection of a heart patient, the care of a child with polio, and so on. It just cannot be done with rigid rules in a hospital as, for instance, it is done in the theater, where an actor may not move a prop, or in radio, where it is a violation for an engineer to substitute for an announcer who has lost his voice. In the hospital, even a doctor can remove a bed pan.

The union, whether racketeer-run or not, whether Communist or not, has no place in the hospital.

Senators Let Dr. Edward Teller Set Own Terms For Testifying

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It's highly unusual that a Congressional committee gives a witness the kid-gloves treatment. And it was both interesting and unusual that the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee let Dr. Edward Teller, semi-father of the H-bomb, set his own terms for testifying the other day. Dr. Teller specified in advance that he would testify at 11 a. m. and must leave at 1 p. m. He then made a statement in defense of the confirmation of Adm. Lewis Strauss as Secretary of Commerce, and, after almost no cross-examination, departed.

If the Senators had been less worshipful of Dr. Teller they might have discovered some interesting facts. The most interesting is that he occupies a rather vague status with the government and the University of California so that he can simultaneously accept retainers of $1,000 a day as a consultant for private industry, including General Dynamics.

In the 1959 edition of Who's Who, Dr. Teller lists himself as with the government's Livermore Laboratory, which is located at the University of California. Yet an inquiry at the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, which is in charge of the Livermore Laboratory, this week brought the information that Dr. Teller was no longer with the government, but with the University of California. An AEC spokesman explained that this severance from the government had been arranged so Teller could avoid any conflict of interest in taking fees from private industry.

However, a summary of Dr. Teller's income, received by the Senate committee as an afterthought when Senators failed to question him, shows that for the past five years Dr. Teller has been receiving fees from private industry. These fees ran as high as $25,000 from General Dynamics in one year, $22,000 from General Dynamics in another, though this year he has received only $1,250 from the big defense firm.

Who Works For Whom?

Significantly, General Dynamics Corporation has received one contract from the AEC to build a gas-cooled atomic reactor and is about to receive another. The firm has hired Dr. Frederic de Hoffmann, Teller's long-time close associate, and put him in charge of gas-cooled reactors.

It has also hired C. Arthur Rolander, the attorney assigned by Admiral Strauss in the purge trial of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer. Rolander is now Washington attorney for General Dynamics.

The big G.D. firm has also hired Everett Hollis, former public relations man for Admiral Strauss.

This makes an interesting pattern of people who have worked for the Atomic Energy Commission but who now work for General Dynamics. The list is topped off by Dr. Edward Teller who has all the atomic know-how of the government at his fingertips, and who now earns private consultant fees from General Dynamics. Yet until recently he listed himself as employed by the government's Livermore Laboratory of the University of California.

Just where Teller's public interest ends and his private interest begins seems difficult to ascertain, and repeated phone calls by this column both to him and to Dr. de Hoffmann of General Dynamics failed to get an explanation. They were not available for comment.

Strauss In Background

Over this dovetailing of General Dynamics with former officials of the Atomic Energy Commission stands the figure of Admiral Strauss. Not only were his friends hired by General Dynamics, not only did its adviser, Dr. Teller, make a special trip to Washington to testify for Strauss, but the Admiral once admitted pulling wires for General Dynamics.

In a February 19, 1958, Congressional hearing, Strauss tipped off his apparent friendship with General Dynamics. He boasted that he had put General Dynamics and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation together in a $10,000,000 thermonuclear research program.

"I brought the Texas group and General Dynamics together in this matter," he disclosed to Congressmen. "I produced — 'produce' is too strong a word — I suggested this arrangement."

Note 1—One reason for the tremendous cost of the U.S. defense program, according to Congressman Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is the letting of government contracts without competitive bidding, sometimes also because ex-government officials, hired by private industry, help influence the contracts. So far, Senators, examining the Strauss record, haven't had time to dig into his relations with General Dynamics. And partly because Strauss's friends have been demanding a speed-up of the hearings, they passed up an opportunity to cross-examine Dr. Teller.

Note 2—Dr. Teller admitted at the Senate hearing that Dr. Stan Ulam, a Los Alamos physicist, also had been an important factor in delevoping the H-bomb. Teller has frequently been called the "Father of The H-Bomb," but Ulam's name appears first on the patent.

Capital Chaff

Two weeks before the Panama invasion, the House Merchant Marine Committee asked the State Department about reports that an invasion force was preparing to endanger the Panama Canal. The State Department replied reassuringly: "The situation is dormant." (At that time invaders were on their way to Panama.) . . . Eisenhower has about given up hope that the Russians have any of the 11 American fliers missing in Soviet Armenia since last September. The President is now inclined to believe that the men are dead and that the Russians are telling the truth when they say the bodies were never recovered. . . . With the Democrats now planning for the 1960 presidential campaign, they still owe half a million on the campaign to elect Stevenson in 1956.

The High-Level Sparring Match At Geneva

By David Lawrence

GENEVA — If the people of East Germany wished to send representatives to the big conference going on here to settle the fate of Berlin and if some way were devised to make sure that they were chosen through the processes of a free government, there wouldn't be the slightest difficulty here about accepting such envoys.

But the realistic truth is that the East German people have nothing to say about it and that most of the so-called "advisers" from East Germany are actually Soviet citizens or handpicked by the Moscow government.

This really ought to be an overriding issue here. Instead, it has been dealt with as a "procedural" question. Yet it presents an opportunity to tell the whole world about the fundamental cause of the present conflict which every now and then emerges as a threat to peace. Representative government that rests on the consent of the governed is a tradition which has motivated peoples everywhere. So, when a dictatorship not only enslaves its own citizens but extends its tyrannical hand to keep other nations in captivity, it is surprising that there is any inclination to "negotiate" with such an autocratic government as the Soviet regime is today.

But it was no insignificant question to the Moscow strategists. They wanted to show the other "captive" states in Eastern Europe that the Moscow government is not only accepted as an equal at Geneva but is acting here as the champion of the interests of East Germany and neighboring states now under the control of the Soviets.

The Western foreign ministers had thought that the exchange of notes a few weeks ago with the Moscow government had cleared up the question but, with their customary insincerity, the Soviets declared here that the note they sent didn't mean this at all. That's really why this conference is going to be a long one. It's to be just one quibble after another.

Also, Foreign Minister Gromyko, who was taught by Molotov the art of saying "no" to everything and introducing a lot of extraneous topics to confuse the issue, has been instructed to make the going as hard as possible. For presumably that's the Soviet way of proving that a "summit" conference is necessary and that only one man — Nikita Khrushchev — is capable of negotiating for two hundred million people and of determining the fate of tens of millions held captive in the smaller countries that border on the Soviet Union.

Molotov is the man who helped Stalin double-cross the Allies. While "negotiating" with Britain, he secretly made the deal which gave Hitler his chance to start World War II. Gromyko sat for years under Molotov and knows exactly how to mess up any negotiation that the West undertakes. He speaks English and has a smooth manner, but everyone knows that he has been instructed to agree to as little as possible here so as to make necessary the "summit" conference.

Already there is speculation as to what "crumb" is to be thrown by Moscow to the Western foreign ministers. Actually, it may take the form of a declaration by the Soviets agreeing to what is being called an "interim solution" for Berlin. This means that, in effect, the ultimatum will be withdrawn for a while and, with some slight changes, the Western Allies will be able to exercise the same rights and privileges as heretofore. This device is known as a "modus vivendi" — a method of getting along temporarily on the same basis as before. But this very concession implies that at a moment's notice the threat to Berlin can be renewed.

In the center of the whole dilemma here is the question of how to deal with the East German puppet regime. Moscow insists that it will soon sign a "peace treaty" with the so-called government of East Germany and that the Western governments will have to deal with that government. This is called "de facto" recognition as distinguished from "de Jure" or legal recognition — a differentiation developed in international law. Theoretically there is a difference but actually the conduct of business or diplomatic relations with East Germany would be hailed behind the Iron Curtain as a sign that the Western Allies had capitulated. It would discourage the people of "captive" states like Hungary who have been hoping that the Western countries would stand firm against every scheme that would imply an affirmation of the Soviet role as master and conqueror. The road to world domination is made easier by just such apparently small concessions that involve a big principle. When symbols of a great cause are disregarded, the aggressor is encouraged and liberty-loving peoples become discouraged.

Only through an aroused public opinion throughout the world can war be prevented. The address last Thursday night to the American people by Secretary of State Christian Herter was a masterful and persuasive presentation of the American case, but it is a sad fact that most of the newspapers in Europe quoted only a few paragraphs from it. This address should have been printed in full text in all European papers, even if advertising space had to be purchased to do it. The entire address should have been given to the peoples of Europe both in print and over the radio. That's what the "Voice of America" is for and what Congress ought to appropriate money for — it wouldn't cost even a tiny fraction of what one military missile costs today. It might be very helpful, indeed, in promoting the cause of peace.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The United States government's decision to send Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Moscow this summer has stimulated private requests to visit Russia.

The State Department was at a loss to explain a sudden increase in passport requests to visit Russia that flooded into the department recently. A little checking up, however, showed that many individuals who wanted to visit Russia had held off because of their uncertainty over the Berlin crisis.

However, their fears were allayed by the announcement of Nixon's forthcoming trip. They reasoned that Russia would not permit a crisis of major proportions to develop either before or during Nixon's scheduled visit, and that therefore it was safe for them to travel, too.

It is worth noting that most of the private visits are scheduled either before or during Nixon's trip; very few for later in the year.

Harry S. Truman is always accorded a warm welcome when he visits Washington, and his recent return to the capital just in advance of his 75th birthday was no exception.

He came to town with the same bounce, smiling countenance and caustic phrase that are so characteristic of him. He went to the Capitol to testify on a bill to remove the two-term limitation on the Presidency, got a standing ovation, and took good-natured jabs at the Republicans, whom he charged with legislating the amendment to "get even" with the late President Roosevelt.

No President, either Democratic or Republican, should enter his second term with "one hand tied behind his back," Truman declared. While he was not affected by the limitation, Truman voluntarily chose not to run for a third four-year term in the White House in 1952.

The Kafka Dream

By Joseph Alsop

GENEVA

There is something of a Kafka-dream about the monstrous meeting that has now started here. The great men of East and West began their deliberations — by squabbling about the shape of the conference table.

That initial clash gave a fair measure, moreover, of the character of most of the rest of the debate that can be expected here. What is real, one is tempted to think, is Geneva's exquisite panorama of the lake and the great fountain and the alleys of flowering trees and the still-snowclad mountains rising behind the little city. The conference itself, one inclines to believe, is no more than a very bad public joke.

But this conference is not a joke, because of the reality that lies behind it. The complex protocol, the elaborate position papers whose total unacceptability is known to both sides, the sense of triumph or defeat derived from such clashes as the great table squabble—all these are utterly divorced from the normal realities of everyday life. Yet the grim underlying reality is intimately though invisibly linked to the lives of all men on this planet.

The nature of this underlying reality is best conveyed by the extraordinary but true anecdote of the visit paid to Gen. Charles de Gaulle by Vinogradov, the smooth Soviet Ambassador to Paris. It occured shortly after the recent special congress of the Communist party in Moscow. Vinogradov made the party congress his pretext for asking to be received by de Gaulle.

This having been the pretext, the Soviet Ambassador somewhat lamely maundered on about the congress and its results for about twenty minutes, while de Gaulle silently and somewhat ominously listened. Finally, Vinogradov, judging it was unwise to beat about the bush any longer, boldly unveiled his real purpose. What, he asked, did de Gaulle think about Berlin? De Gaulle replied in two sentences.

"Free access to West Berlin is a vital Western interest, for which we shall fight if need be. If we have to fight, no doubt we may all die; but so will you!"

Those two terrible sentences, pronounced by de Gaulle in a manner that caused Vinogradov's immediate withdrawal, put the Berlin crisis in a nutshell. On the one hand, for a whole series of moral, political and historical reasons, the maintenance of the Western position in Berlin is a Western vital interest. As British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said in Washington, "If Berlin goes, what next?"

But on the other hand, there is no way on earth to defend this vital Western position in Berlin except by being ready to fight for it; and if the West fights for Berlin, it will be almost impossibly difficult to limit the war. Such is the real choice. A great many people, with Seywyn Lloyd among them, have been looking for a way around or over or under that choice. Yet that choice is the underlying reality of this meeting.

What Andrei Gromyko and his vast Soviet delegation are here to find out, if they can, is whether the Western nations really are ready to fight for Berlin. If they conclude the contrary, as they well may, there will be no end to the concessions which the Soviet will demand. Nothing but the clearest, most decisively proven Western willingness to fight for Berlin will promote the kind of compromise that would be acceptable to the West.

What the Western Foreign Ministers are here for, one almost suspects, is also to find out whether they are willing to fight for Berlin. Gen. de Gaulle may have made up his mind, as he appears to have done. Chancellor Adenauer may have made up his mind, too. But what is in the mind of President Eisenhower? And above all, what is in the mind of Prime Minister Macmillan? These questions, apparently, are going to have to be answered as this conference continues and later on, at the summit itself.

It may seem gloomy-minded to place such emphasis on the harsh choice that the Berlin crisis ultimately demands. But it is only prudent to begin thinking about this choice, for the very good reason that Berlin seems likely to be only the first round in a quite new kind of East-West contest of will. This new kind of contest became predictable as soon as the Eisenhower administration decided not to maintain the Western nuclear lead.

Today, at the very beginning of the missile gap, the Soviets are saying, "We find the Berlin situation intolerable, and if you don't change it to suit us, we will take measures you can only counter by using the weapons you have never before been willing to use." The Soviets would not be saying this if the American nuclear lead had been maintained. They are now saying this precisely because the American lead has been lost. They are obviously likely to say worse things as the missile gap widens. That is really where we stand today, and that is why the nature of choice at Berlin needs to be faced up to and prayerfully considered.

Vaccines Prevent Severe Bee-Sting Reactions

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons are allergic to insects and after being stung display large hive-like swelling that itch intensely. Prompt relief can be obtained with a lotion or cream containing hydrocortisone or an antihistaminic substance.

A few individuals are ultra-sensitive and develop a generalized reaction that offers a serious emergency. Death may ensue unless the condition is recognized and treated promptly. Itching occurs within a few minutes after being stung. The area breaks out with hives, the lips and eyelids swell, and the chest feels tight. These persons gasp for breath, wheeze, and feel faint. Some lapse into shock or unconsciousness.

Anyone who has gone through an experience of this nature ought to be desensitized against insect bites. Extracts of honey bee, wasp, hornet, and yellow jacket are available. Injections of epinephrine or one of the antihistaminic drugs or steroid hormones give temporary relief.

Those who suffer severe reactions to insect stings are few and far between. Dr. Robert A. and Dr. Robert F. E. Stier of Spokane learned this when they decided to evaluate a vaccine against insect reactions.

Over a five year period they saw 18 patients who were hypersensitive. Fifteen of this group were desensitized and, after waiting for years, only seven were stung again. This obviously was a poor follow-up even though the seven who were bitten appeared to be protected. These physicians decided to write their colleagues suggesting pooling of information on the efficacy of the vaccines. In time, 53 case reports were obtained. Of 23 persons stung after receiving the vaccine, 18 were completely protected, five received partial relief, and only one was not helped.

These results are good enough to add desensitization to our present methods of dealing with insects. We have excellent insecticides and repellents as well as products that offer temporary relief of sting symptoms. I am still searching for that magic pill a person can take to discourage all insects from coming close.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCIES

W. R. writes: How can we tell if we lack vitamins in our system?

REPLY

There are blood tests for certain vitamins which could serve as an index of dietary adequacies. On the other hand, most physicians delve into this problem by looking for outward manifestations of deficiencies and by studying the diet. It generally is agreed that a healthy person who is receiving a well rounded diet is getting all the vitamins the body needs.

TEARLESS

W. D. writes: What is dry eye disease?

REPLY

A condition in which the tear glands are so inefficient the outer surfaces of the eyes have no moisture.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Three stories brought home from school by my 12-year-old son, Jonathan:

1. Q. What weighs 1,000 pounds, sings, has four legs, and is yellow? A.—Two 500-pound canaries.

2. Did you hear about the man who fell out of a fourteenth story window but didn't even suffer a scratch? The fortunate fellow was wearing a light fall suit.

3. Kid in class was asked if he knew the meaning of the word bachelor. "I sure do," answered the kid. "It's what my daddy wishes he was."

A phone operator icily informed an importunate college boy, "I'm sorry, sir, but that number has been taken out." "I know darn well she's been taken out," wailed the boy. "What I'm trying to find out is: by whom?"

A New Species Of Politician?

An article on "Oregon's Golden Boy" in the Saturday Evening Post unwittingly poses the question: Is a new species of politician emerging?

It tells of the amazing success of a 36-year-old Republican in a state that is predominantly Democratic, judging by the ascendancy of Morse and Neuberger. At the other end of the country is seen the parallel feat of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York in a state which often goes Democratic. The parallel is mentioned in the story.

Both these young men adopted the "me too" line, unblushingly espousing policies of the New Deal classification as seemed expedient. Probably many observers have jumped to the conclusion that this double phenomenon proves the leftward slant has gained a permanent place in American policies and that those who oppose it may as well quietly fold their tents and steal away into the limbo of forgotten things.

Actually, in both cases personal popularity was unquestionably the prime factor. The list is topped off by Dr. Edward Teller who has all the atomic know-how of the government at his fingertips, and who now earns private consultant fees from General Dynamics. Yet until recently he listed himself as employed by the government's Livermore Laboratory of the University of California.

Just where Teller's public interest ends and his private interest begins seems difficult to ascertain, and repeated phone calls by this column both to him and to Dr. de Hoffmann of General Dynamics failed to get an explanation. They were not available for comment.

Strauss In Background

Over this dovetailing of General Dynamics with former officials of the Atomic Energy Commission stands the figure of Admiral Strauss. Not only were his friends hired by General Dynamics, not only did its adviser, Dr. Teller, make a special trip to Washington to testify for Strauss, but the Admiral once admitted pulling wires for General Dynamics.

In a February 19, 1958, Congressional hearing, Strauss tipped off his apparent friendship with General Dynamics. He boasted that he had put General Dynamics and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation together in a $10,000,000 thermonuclear research program.

"I brought the Texas group and General Dynamics together in this matter," he disclosed to Congressmen. "I produced — 'produce' is too strong a word — I suggested this arrangement."

Note 1—One reason for the tremendous cost of the U.S. defense program, according to Congressman Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is the letting of government contracts without competitive bidding, sometimes also because ex-government officials, hired by private industry, help influence the contracts. So far, Senators, examining the Strauss record, haven't had time to dig into his relations with General Dynamics. And partly because Strauss's friends have been demanding a speed-up of the hearings, they passed up an opportunity to cross-examine Dr. Teller.

Note 2—Dr. Teller admitted at the Senate hearing that Dr. Stan Ulam, a Los Alamos physicist, also had been an important factor in delevoping the H-bomb. Teller has frequently been called the "Father of The H-Bomb," but Ulam's name appears first on the patent.

Capital Chaff

Two weeks before the Panama invasion, the House Merchant Marine Committee asked the State Department about reports that an invasion force was preparing to endanger the Panama Canal. The State Department replied reassuringly: "The situation is dormant." (At that time invaders were on their way to Panama.) . . . Eisenhower has about given up hope that the Russians have any of the 11 American fliers missing in Soviet Armenia since last September. The President is now inclined to believe that the men are dead and that the Russians are telling the truth when they say the bodies were never recovered. . . . With the Democrats now planning for the 1960 presidential campaign, they still owe half a million on the campaign to elect Stevenson in 1956.

The High-Level Sparring Match At Geneva

By David Lawrence

GENEVA — If the people of East Germany wished to send representatives to the big conference going on here to settle the fate of Berlin and if some way were devised to make sure that they were chosen through the processes of a free government, there wouldn't be the slightest difficulty here about accepting such envoys.

But the realistic truth is that the East German people have nothing to say about it and that most of the so-called "advisers" from East Germany are actually Soviet citizens or handpicked by the Moscow government.

This really ought to be an overriding issue here. Instead, it has been dealt with as a "procedural" question. Yet it presents an opportunity to tell the whole world about the fundamental cause of the present conflict which every now and then emerges as a threat to peace. Representative government that rests on the consent of the governed is a tradition which has motivated peoples everywhere. So, when a dictatorship not only enslaves its own citizens but extends its tyrannical hand to keep other nations in captivity, it is surprising that there is any inclination to "negotiate" with such an autocratic government as the Soviet regime is today.

But it was no insignificant question to the Moscow strategists. They wanted to show the other "captive" states in Eastern Europe that the Moscow government is not only accepted as an equal at Geneva but is acting here as the champion of the interests of East Germany and neighboring states now under the control of the Soviets.

The Western foreign ministers had thought that the exchange of notes a few weeks ago with the Moscow government had cleared up the question but, with their customary insincerity, the Soviets declared here that the note they sent didn't mean this at all. That's really why this conference is going to be a long one. It's to be just one quibble after another.

Also, Foreign Minister Gromyko, who was taught by Molotov the art of saying "no" to everything and introducing a lot of extraneous topics to confuse the issue, has been instructed to make the going as hard as possible. For presumably that's the Soviet way of proving that a "summit" conference is necessary and that only one man — Nikita Khrushchev — is capable of negotiating for two hundred million people and of determining the fate of tens of millions held captive in the smaller countries that border on the Soviet Union.

Molotov is the man who helped Stalin double-cross the Allies. While "negotiating" with Britain, he secretly made the deal which gave Hitler his chance to start World War II. Gromyko sat for years under Molotov and knows exactly how to mess up any negotiation that the West undertakes. He speaks English and has a smooth manner, but everyone knows that he has been instructed to agree to as little as possible here so as to make necessary the "summit" conference.

Already there is speculation as to what "crumb" is to be thrown by Moscow to the Western foreign ministers. Actually, it may take the form of a declaration by the Soviets agreeing to what is being called an "interim solution" for Berlin. This means that, in effect, the ultimatum will be withdrawn for a while and, with some slight changes, the Western Allies will be able to exercise the same rights and privileges as heretofore. This device is known as a "modus vivendi" — a method of getting along temporarily on the same basis as before. But this very concession implies that at a moment's notice the threat to Berlin can be renewed.

In the center of the whole dilemma here is the question of how to deal with the East German puppet regime. Moscow insists that it will soon sign a "peace treaty" with the so-called government of East Germany and that the Western governments will have to deal with that government. This is called "de facto" recognition as distinguished from "de Jure" or legal recognition — a differentiation developed in international law. Theoretically there is a difference but actually the conduct of business or diplomatic relations with East Germany would be hailed behind the Iron Curtain as a sign that the Western Allies had capitulated. It would discourage the people of "captive" states like Hungary who have been hoping that the Western countries would stand firm against every scheme that would imply an affirmation of the Soviet role as master and conqueror. The road to world domination is made easier by just such apparently small concessions that involve a big principle. When symbols of a great cause are disregarded, the aggressor is encouraged and liberty-loving peoples become discouraged.

Only through an aroused public opinion throughout the world can war be prevented. The address last Thursday night to the American people by Secretary of State Christian Herter was a masterful and persuasive presentation of the American case, but it is a sad fact that most of the newspapers in Europe quoted only a few paragraphs from it. This address should have been printed in full text in all European papers, even if advertising space had to be purchased to do it. The entire address should have been given to the peoples of Europe both in print and over the radio. That's what the "Voice of America" is for and what Congress ought to appropriate money for — it wouldn't cost even a tiny fraction of what one military missile costs today. It might be very helpful, indeed, in promoting the cause of peace.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The United States government's decision to send Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Moscow this summer has stimulated private requests to visit Russia.

The State Department was at a loss to explain a sudden increase in passport requests to visit Russia that flooded into the department recently. A little checking up, however, showed that many individuals who wanted to visit Russia had held off because of their uncertainty over the Berlin crisis.

However, their fears were allayed by the announcement of Nixon's forthcoming trip. They reasoned that Russia would not permit a crisis of major proportions to develop either before or during Nixon's scheduled visit, and that therefore it was safe for them to travel, too.

It is worth noting that most of the private visits are scheduled either before or during Nixon's trip; very few for later in the year.

Harry S. Truman is always accorded a warm welcome when he visits Washington, and his recent return to the capital just in advance of his 75th birthday was no exception.

He came to town with the same bounce, smiling countenance and caustic phrase that are so characteristic of him. He went to the Capitol to testify on a bill to remove the two-term limitation on the Presidency, got a standing ovation, and took good-natured jabs at the Republicans, whom he charged with legislating the amendment to "get even" with the late President Roosevelt.

No President, either Democratic or Republican, should enter his second term with "one hand tied behind his back," Truman declared. While he was not affected by the limitation, Truman voluntarily chose not to run for a third four-year term in the White House in 1952.

The Kafka Dream

By Joseph Alsop

GENEVA

There is something of a Kafka-dream about the monstrous meeting that has now started here. The great men of East and West began their deliberations — by squabbling about the shape of the conference table.

That initial clash gave a fair measure, moreover, of the character of most of the rest of the debate that can be expected here. What is real, one is tempted to think, is Geneva's exquisite panorama of the lake and the great fountain and the alleys of flowering trees and the still-snowclad mountains rising behind the little city. The conference itself, one inclines to believe, is no more than a very bad public joke.

But this conference is not a joke, because of the reality that lies behind it. The complex protocol, the elaborate position papers whose total unacceptability is known to both sides, the sense of triumph or defeat derived from such clashes as the great table squabble—all these are utterly divorced from the normal realities of everyday life. Yet the grim underlying reality is intimately though invisibly linked to the lives of all men on this planet.

The nature of this underlying reality is best conveyed by the extraordinary but true anecdote of the visit paid to Gen. Charles de Gaulle by Vinogradov, the smooth Soviet Ambassador to Paris. It occured shortly after the recent special congress of the Communist party in Moscow. Vinogradov made the party congress his pretext for asking to be received by de Gaulle.

This having been the pretext, the Soviet Ambassador somewhat lamely maundered on about the congress and its results for about twenty minutes, while de Gaulle silently and somewhat ominously listened. Finally, Vinogradov, judging it was unwise to beat about the bush any longer, boldly unveiled his real purpose. What, he asked, did de Gaulle think about Berlin? De Gaulle replied in two sentences.

"Free access to West Berlin is a vital Western interest, for which we shall fight if need be. If we have to fight, no doubt we may all die; but so will you!"

Those two terrible sentences, pronounced by de Gaulle in a manner that caused Vinogradov's immediate withdrawal, put the Berlin crisis in a nutshell. On the one hand, for a whole series of moral, political and historical reasons, the maintenance of the Western position in Berlin is a Western vital interest. As British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said in Washington, "If Berlin goes, what next?"

But on the other hand, there is no way on earth to defend this vital Western position in Berlin except by being ready to fight for it; and if the West fights for Berlin, it will be almost impossibly difficult to limit the war. Such is the real choice. A great many people, with Seywyn Lloyd among them, have been looking for a way around or over or under that choice. Yet that choice is the underlying reality of this meeting.

What Andrei Gromyko and his vast Soviet delegation are here to find out, if they can, is whether the Western nations really are ready to fight for Berlin. If they conclude the contrary, as they well may, there will be no end to the concessions which the Soviet will demand. Nothing but the clearest, most decisively proven Western willingness to fight for Berlin will promote the kind of compromise that would be acceptable to the West.

What the Western Foreign Ministers are here for, one almost suspects, is also to find out whether they are willing to fight for Berlin. Gen. de Gaulle may have made up his mind, as he appears to have done. Chancellor Adenauer may have made up his mind, too. But what is in the mind of President Eisenhower? And above all, what is in the mind of Prime Minister Macmillan? These questions, apparently, are going to have to be answered as this conference continues and later on, at the summit itself.

It may seem gloomy-minded to place such emphasis on the harsh choice that the Berlin crisis ultimately demands. But it is only prudent to begin thinking about this choice, for the very good reason that Berlin seems likely to be only the first round in a quite new kind of East-West contest of will. This new kind of contest became predictable as soon as the Eisenhower administration decided not to maintain the Western nuclear lead.

Today, at the very beginning of the missile gap, the Soviets are saying, "We find the Berlin situation intolerable, and if you don't change it to suit us, we will take measures you can only counter by using the weapons you have never before been willing to use." The Soviets would not be saying this if the American nuclear lead had been maintained. They are now saying this precisely because the American lead has been lost. They are obviously likely to say worse things as the missile gap widens. That is really where we stand today, and that is why the nature of choice at Berlin needs to be faced up to and prayerfully considered.

Vaccines Prevent Severe Bee-Sting Reactions

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons are allergic to insects and after being stung display large hive-like swelling that itch intensely. Prompt relief can be obtained with a lotion or cream containing hydrocortisone or an antihistaminic substance.

A few individuals are ultra-sensitive and develop a generalized reaction that offers a serious emergency. Death may ensue unless the condition is recognized and treated promptly. Itching occurs within a few minutes after being stung. The area breaks out with hives, the lips and eyelids swell, and the chest feels tight. These persons gasp for breath, wheeze, and feel faint. Some lapse into shock or unconsciousness.

Anyone who has gone through an experience of this nature ought to be desensitized against insect bites. Extracts of honey bee, wasp, hornet, and yellow jacket are available. Injections of epinephrine or one of the antihistaminic drugs or steroid hormones give temporary relief.

Those who suffer severe reactions to insect stings are few and far between. Dr. Robert A. and Dr. Robert F. E. Stier of Spokane learned this when they decided to evaluate a vaccine against insect reactions.

Over a five year period they saw 18 patients who were hypersensitive. Fifteen of this group were desensitized and, after waiting for years, only seven were stung again. This obviously was a poor follow-up even though the seven who were bitten appeared to be protected. These physicians decided to write their colleagues suggesting pooling of information on the efficacy of the vaccines. In time, 53 case reports were obtained. Of 23 persons stung after receiving the vaccine, 18 were completely protected, five received partial relief, and only one was not helped.

These results are good enough to add desensitization to our present methods of dealing with insects. We have excellent insecticides and repellents as well as products that offer temporary relief of sting symptoms. I am still searching for that magic pill a person can take to discourage all insects from coming close.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCIES

W. R. writes: How can we tell if we lack vitamins in our system?

REPLY

There are blood tests for certain vitamins which could serve as an index of dietary adequacies. On the other hand, most physicians delve into this problem by looking for outward manifestations of deficiencies and by studying the diet. It generally is agreed that a healthy person who is receiving a well rounded diet is getting all the vitamins the body needs.

TEARLESS

W. D. writes: What is dry eye disease?

REPLY

A condition in which the tear glands are so inefficient the outer surfaces of the eyes have no moisture.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Three stories brought home from school by my 12-year-old son, Jonathan:

1. Q. What weighs 1,000 pounds, sings, has four legs, and is yellow? A.—Two 500-pound canaries.

2. Did you hear about the man who fell out of a fourteenth story window but didn't even suffer a scratch? The fortunate fellow was wearing a light fall suit.

3. Kid in class was asked if he knew the meaning of the word bachelor. "I sure do," answered the kid. "It's what my daddy wishes he was."

A phone operator icily informed an importunate college boy, "I'm sorry, sir, but that number has been taken out." "I know darn well she's been taken out," wailed the boy. "What I'm trying to find out is: by whom?"

Bert Wheeler says that automobiles in midtown traffic always remind him of a burlesque chorus on a miniature stage: they're bumper to bumper!

Chisox Win 5th Straight, Defeat Boston Red Sox, 4-0

Shaw Leaves Bullpen To Hurl Victory

Chicago Moves Up Within One Game Of First Place

BOSTON (UPI)—Young Bob Shaw graduated from the bull pen to a starting role Wednesday and blanked the Boston Red Sox on five hits for a 4-0 Chicago White Sox victory.

The win, Chicago's fifth straight after dropping five in a row, moved the White Sox to one game of the league-leading Cleveland Indians, who were rained out in New York.

Shaw, making his first start after 14 relief appearances, limited Boston to five singles while lowering his earned run average to an astounding 0.81 on three runs allowed over 33 1-3 innings. The 25-year-old righthander permitted Red Sox base runners to advance beyond first base only once, when he loaded the bases in the fifth inning before getting Pete Runnels to hit into a force play. He walked none and struck out three while posting his second win against no losses.

Consecutive singles by Jim Landist, Sherm Lollar, Del Ennis and Earl Torgeson produced two runs in the opening frame. Al Smith doubled Home Ennis in the third and Lollar singled in Landis in the fourth after the Chicago center fielder singled and stole his fifth base of the year.

Ted Williams, hitless in five trips Tuesday night in his season's debut, singled once in four trips, drilling a hit through the vacated shortstop position in the sixth inning.

Banks Belts Grand Slam In Cubs Win

Cincinnati Loses To Chicago, 10-0

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ernie Banks broke out of a hitting slump on Wednesday with a grand - slam home run to highlight a seven-run inning for the Chicago Cubs and lead them to a 10-0 triumph over Cincinnati, the first shutout of the season for the Reds.

Banks, who had only one hit in 24 previous times at bat, collected his eighth homer of season and his first home park four-bagger of the year. He led the league in home runs last season.

Glenn Hobbie pitched his third complete game, among only five by the entire Cubs' pitching staff, to win his fourth game against three losses. It was his second shutout of the season and the third by the Cubs.

Hobbie pitched a three - hitter and walked five.

Jones Whiffs 12 As Giants Defeat Phils

Hurls Two-Hitter In 6-0 Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sam Jones, using a blazing curve ball which burned the Phillies to a crisp, hurled a two-hitter Wednesday and set a National League season high of 12 strikeouts while pitching the Giants to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia.

The toothpick - munching right hander, who turned back Pittsburgh with a no-hitter four years ago when with the Cubs, had another in the works this afternoon until the seventh inning. Then Willie Jones, one of the Whiz Kids, tapped a bleeder to Jim Davenport at third base, who could not make a play on the ball.

Jones, riding to his third win against four defeats, was staked to a five-run lead in the first inning as the Giants worked over Ruben Gomez, their former teammate, who left after the inning ended with his second loss. He has no wins.

Chamberlain Signs Contract With Warriors

Wilt To Receive $30,000 To Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain Wednesday became the highest paid player in the history of the National Basketball Assn., signing a one-year contract for more than $30,000 with the Philadelphia Warriors.

Warriors' owner Eddie Gottlieb said signing of the 22-year-old 7-foot Negro ace meant prosperity for the entire league. He predicted a $100,000 gate increase for his Warriors and said Chamberlain's appearances would pack houses all over the circuit.

Chamberlin earned some $67,000 with the Harlem Globetrotters last year and could have equaled that in 1959. He said he is taking a cut to give up the role of clown for a place in big league basketball.

Prior to Chamberlain's signing, Bob Cousy's reported $25,000 plus salary with the Boston Celtics was considered the highest pay for an NBA performer. The Stilt, a national figure since his high school days in Philadelphia, is expected to make the Warriors a title threat in the NBA's Eastern Division. He'll join such Philadelphia stars as Tom Gola, Paul Arizin, Neil Johnston and Guy Rodgers.

The signing of Chamberlain ended a four-year wait for Gottlieb, whose Warriors finished last in the NBA's Eastern Division in 1958-59.

First Landing And Arcaro Seen Preakness Threats

Field Of 12 To Go To Post Saturday

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Marylanders and other assorted tourists in Baltimore for the 83rd running of the Preakness Stakes at old Pimlico Saturday are taking another look at First Landing and Eddie Arcaro.

The track oddsmaker listed the Brookmeade Stale's Sword Dancer, who was nosed out by Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, as the probable Preakness favorite at 2-1 odds. First Landing—third in the derby — was the second choice here at 3-1.

Arcaro is the winningest Preakness jockey, having won six times. The master has ridden in Baltimore's triple crown classic 14 times, and was in the money on 12 occasions. He hasn't been worse than third since 1944, with 11 mounts.

Tomy Lee went back to California after his duel with Sword Dancer in the Kentucky Derby.

A field of 12 3-year-olds is expected for the Prakness, set for 4:45 p.m. EST, Saturday, with $137,700 net for the winner.

Sword Dancer had his final serious workout on the muddy track Wednesday morning, going 6 furlongs in 1:18 3-5 and galloping out the mile in 1:49. First Landing galloped, and is expected to have his serious heavy workout Thursday, along with the King ranch's Black Hills, Elkcam Stable's Open View, and Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler.

Pimlico railbirds, who were chased under the stands Tuesday by another thunderstorm that left the track resembling nearby Chesapeake Bay, need look back no farther than 1957 for an Arcaro coup.

As the Derby favorite, Bold Ruler with Arcaro up finished fourth in Louisville behind Iron Liege. But two weeks later in the Preakness, Bold Ruler was sent into the front end at once and beat Iron Liege by two lengths.

Iron Liege was the favorite at $1.30 to $1.00, and to illustrate the esteem for Arcaro in this territory the fans made Bold Ruler $1.40 for $1.

Willie Shoemaker, who rode Tommy Lee in the Derby, replaces Bill Boland as Sword Dancer's rider. Willie and Eddie are the greatest of friends, but that will be forgotten when the gates spring open for an expected field of 12 colts at 4:45 p. m., EST, Saturday. If 12 start, the race will gross $191,800, with Eddie and Willie thinking about the $137,700 net for the winner.

Briardale Farm's Rico Tesio and Rosbet S. Lytle's Sundown 2nd worked a mile together Tuesday. Clockers caught Sundown 2nd in 1:44 3-5 and Rico Tesio in 1:46. The wet, abrasive sand cut Sundown 2nd's heels, but Trainer Eddie Cos said he hoped to make the Preakness.

The rains will end early Thursday, the weather man promises, with clear and cooler weather predicted for Saturday.

Frostburg Legion, Woodmen Grab Lead In Shuffle Playoffs

The Frostburg American Legion took a 36-point lead over the Golden Nuggets last night on the latter's boards, winning 90-54 in the first three games of the semi-finals playoffs of the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

In the other semi-final match played on the WOW alleys the Woodmen of the World edged Hann's Tavern, 57-53, to carry a four-point lead into the remaining three games of the six-game series.

The Legion will host the Nuggets in the second three-game series next Wednesday and the WOW will travel to Hann's to complete their match that evening. The winners will be decided on total points at the close of the six-game matches.

Leading the Woodmen as they won two of the three games against Hann's was Willard Auvil with 13 points while Pat Gray had 15 for Hann's. High for the Legion which swept the three-game series was Anne Engle with 20 points. Marguerite Lashley had 13 tallies for the Nuggets.

Game Postponed

Scott Floors Dupas, Wins 10-Round Nod

CHICAGO (UPI) — Charley Scott floored high-ranked Ralph Dupas with a left hand punch in the first round and then stood off his rival's speedy jabs the rest of the way to win a 10 round split decision in Wednesday night's televised fight.

Both battlers weighed 146½ for the bout and though Dupas, rated among the world welterweights, was an early 8-5 favorite, Scott, ranked No. 7, closed as an 8-5 choice at ringside.

Keyser-Romney Baseball Game Is Washed Out

The scheduled baseball game between two of the top teams in the Potomac Valley Conference yesterday at Romney was washed out by the day-long hard rain.

Romney's Pioneers (6-1) were to host Keyser High's unbeaten (9-0) nine in the latter's final game of the season. A Keyser victory would have cinched the title for Coach Tack Clark's Golden Tornado.

Coaches of the two teams said last night a new date for the game has not been scheduled. Romney also has two other postponed contests to make up.

The couple, shown here before game time at Wrigley Field, Chicago, will be married here next Monday. Walt hit a game-tying home run against the Milwaukee Braves in the ninth inning Tuesday and yesterday he collected two hits, including a double, against Cincinnati as his bride-to-be cheered him on. Banks Belts Grand Slam In Cubs Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ernie Banks broke out of a hitting slump on Wednesday with a grand - slam home run to highlight a seven-run inning for the Chicago Cubs and lead them to a 10-0 triumph over Cincinnati, the first shutout of the season for the Reds.

Banks, who had only one hit in 24 previous times at bat, collected his eighth homer of season and his first home park four-bagger of the year. He led the league in home runs last season.

Glenn Hobbie pitched his third complete game, among only five by the entire Cubs' pitching staff, to win his fourth game against three losses. It was his second shutout of the season and the third by the Cubs.

Hobbie pitched a three - hitter and walked five.

Chicago's attack centered on starter Bob Purkey, who lost his third game. Lee Walls and Sammy Taylor singled to open the third inning and Hobbie walked. Tony Taylor singled for one run and Al Dark singled for another before Banks cleared the bases.

Jones Whiffs 12 As Giants Defeat Phils

Hurls Two-Hitter In 6-0 Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sam Jones, using a blazing curve ball which burned the Phillies to a crisp, hurled a two-hitter Wednesday and set a National League season high of 12 strikeouts while pitching the Giants to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia.

The toothpick - munching right hander, who turned back Pittsburgh with a no-hitter four years ago when with the Cubs, had another in the works this afternoon until the seventh inning. Then Willie Jones, one of the Whiz Kids, tapped a bleeder to Jim Davenport at third base, who could not make a play on the ball.

One inning later, pinch - hitter Gene Freese smacked Jones for a solid single to left field which thoroughly ended the spell.

Jones, riding to his third win against four defeats, was staked to a five-run lead in the first inning as the Giants worked over Ruben Gomez, their former teammate, who left after the inning ended with his second loss. He has no wins.

Chamberlain Signs Contract With Warriors

Wilt To Receive $30,000 To Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain Wednesday became the highest paid player in the history of the National Basketball Assn., signing a one-year contract for more than $30,000 with the Philadelphia Warriors.

Warriors' owner Eddie Gottlieb said signing of the 22-year-old 7-foot Negro ace meant prosperity for the entire league. He predicted a $100,000 gate increase for his Warriors and said Chamberlain's appearances would pack houses all over the circuit.

Chamberlin earned some $67,000 with the Harlem Globetrotters last year and could have equaled that in 1959. He said he is taking a cut to give up the role of clown for a place in big league basketball.

Prior to Chamberlain's signing, Bob Cousy's reported $25,000 plus salary with the Boston Celtics was considered the highest pay for an NBA performer. The Stilt, a national figure since his high school days in Philadelphia, is expected to make the Warriors a title threat in the NBA's Eastern Division. He'll join such Philadelphia stars as Tom Gola, Paul Arizin, Neil Johnston and Guy Rodgers.

The signing of Chamberlain ended a four-year wait for Gottlieb, whose Warriors finished last in the NBA's Eastern Division in 1958-59.

First Landing And Arcaro Seen Preakness Threats

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Marylanders and other assorted tourists in Baltimore for the 83rd running of the Preakness Stakes at old Pimlico Saturday are taking another look at First Landing and Eddie Arcaro.

The track oddsmaker listed the Brookmeade Stale's Sword Dancer, who was nosed out by Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, as the probable Preakness favorite at 2-1 odds. First Landing—third in the derby — was the second choice here at 3-1.

Arcaro is the winningest Preakness jockey, having won six times. The master has ridden in Baltimore's triple crown classic 14 times, and was in the money on 12 occasions. He hasn't been worse than third since 1944, with 11 mounts.

Tomy Lee went back to California after his duel with Sword Dancer in the Kentucky Derby.

A field of 12 3-year-olds is expected for the Prakness, set for 4:45 p.m. EST, Saturday, with $137,700 net for the winner.

Sword Dancer had his final serious workout on the muddy track Wednesday morning, going 6 furlongs in 1:18 3-5 and galloping out the mile in 1:49. First Landing galloped, and is expected to have his serious heavy workout Thursday, along with the King ranch's Black Hills, Elkcam Stable's Open View, and Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler.

Pimlico railbirds, who were chased under the stands Tuesday by another thunderstorm that left the track resembling nearby Chesapeake Bay, need look back no farther than 1957 for an Arcaro coup.

As the Derby favorite, Bold Ruler with Arcaro up finished fourth in Louisville behind Iron Liege. But two weeks later in the Preakness, Bold Ruler was sent into the front end at once and beat Iron Liege by two lengths.

Iron Liege was the favorite at $1.30 to $1.00, and to illustrate the esteem for Arcaro in this territory the fans made Bold Ruler $1.40 for $1.

Willie Shoemaker, who rode Tommy Lee in the Derby, replaces Bill Boland as Sword Dancer's rider. Willie and Eddie are the greatest of friends, but that will be forgotten when the gates spring open for an expected field of 12 colts at 4:45 p. m., EST, Saturday. If 12 start, the race will gross $191,800, with Eddie and Willie thinking about the $137,700 net for the winner.

Shoemaker, as well as the fans will be well aware of how Arcaro's colts snap back in the Preakness after Derby disaster.

Briardale Farm's Rico Tesio and Rosbet S. Lytle's Sundown 2nd worked a mile together Tuesday. Clockers caught Sundown 2nd in 1:44 3-5 and Rico Tesio in 1:46. The wet, abrasive sand cut Sundown 2nd's heels, but Trainer Eddie Cos said he hoped to make the Preakness.

The rains will end early Thursday, the weather man promises, with clear and cooler weather predicted for Saturday.

Frostburg Legion, Woodmen Grab Lead In Shuffle Playoffs

The Frostburg American Legion took a 36-point lead over the Golden Nuggets last night on the latter's boards, winning 90-54 in the first three games of the semi-finals playoffs of the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

In the other semi-final match played on the WOW alleys the Woodmen of the World edged Hann's Tavern, 57-53, to carry a four-point lead into the remaining three games of the six-game series.

The Legion will host the Nuggets in the second three-game series next Wednesday and the WOW will travel to Hann's to complete their match that evening. The winners will be decided on total points at the close of the six-game matches.

Leading the Woodmen as they won two of the three games against Hann's was Willard Auvil with 13 points while Pat Gray had 15 for Hann's. High for the Legion which swept the three-game series was Anne Engle with 20 points. Marguerite Lashley had 13 tallies for the Nuggets.

Game Postponed

Scott Floors Dupas, Wins 10-Round Nod

CHICAGO (UPI) — Charley Scott floored high-ranked Ralph Dupas with a left hand punch in the first round and then stood off his rival's speedy jabs the rest of the way to win a 10 round split decision in Wednesday night's televised fight.

Both battlers weighed 146½ for the bout and though Dupas, rated among the world welterweights, was an early 8-5 favorite, Scott, ranked No. 7, closed as an 8-5 choice at ringside.

Scott, who won his fifth straight bout and his 23rd in 33 pro encounters, wasted no time in taking command. He moved in on Dupas early in the first round and finally decked him with a hard left to the jaw.

Keyser-Romney Baseball Game Is Washed Out

The scheduled baseball game between two of the top teams in the Potomac Valley Conference yesterday at Romney was washed out by the day-long hard rain.

Romney's Pioneers (6-1) were to host Keyser High's unbeaten (9-0) nine in the latter's final game of the season. A Keyser victory would have cinched the title for Coach Tack Clark's Golden Tornado.

Coaches of the two teams said last night a new date for the game has not been scheduled. Romney also has two other postponed contests to make up.

Sam Snead's Golf Festival Begins Today

57 Pros Expected To Play In Event

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Champions ranging from 1931 to the present day will match golf strokes in the Sam Snead Festival starting tomorrow Thursday.

Billy Burke is the dean of the champs in Snead's invitation affair. He won the U.S. Open 28 years ago in the longest overtime —72 extra holes.

The newest king among those shooting for $10,000 in prizes is Dow Finsterwald, defending PGA titlist.

Another old Masters winner in the field is Henry Picard who took the Augusta, Ga., title in 1938. He won the PGA the following year.

Other past PGA winners include Johnny Revolta (1935), Bob Hamilton (1944) and Jim Turnesa (1952).

Another entry is the Australian champion, Gary Player. He tied Snead for the regulation 72 holes in last year's festival and lost to the host on the fifth extra hole.

It was Snead's fourth victory out of the 12 tournaments at his home courses. Play is held over two of them, each having par 70.

Besides Snead, former winners of the tournament returning are Dutch Harrison and Ed (Porky) Oliver. Harrison won it in 1955 and 1957 with Oliver triumphing in between.

Oliver has the Jamaica Open title behind him this year. Other PGA tour winners are Finsterwald at Greensboro, N. C., and Mike Souchak at Las Vegas April 26 where he beat all 1959 tourney victors until then.

USAC Drivers Ordered To Wear Treated Suits

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — All drivers in races sanctioned by the United States Auto Club were ordred Wednesday to treat their uniforms with a flame-retarding solution.

Henry Banks, USAC director of competition and himself a veteran driver, posted notice that effective Thursday all USAC drivers must wear long-sleeved treated uniforms, even in practice.

Use of the boric acid-borax flame-proofing solution has been recommended by USAC in the past but never has been mandatory.

Hermans And Hook Seek 5th Straight

Corriganville's Hermans and Lefty Bob Hook will be gunning for their fifth straight wins today when the County Softball League leaders tangle with Fossilville on the latter's field at 6:15 p. m.

The Hermans lost their first game of the season but have won the last four in a row. Fossilville is 1-3 to date.

Burkey's of Kennell's Mill (3-1) will face Homewood Tavern (2-2) at Corriganville and Stringtown (1-3) hosts Cumberland Cement (1-3) in other games on today's card.

Keyser Is Favorite In Mineral Co. Meet

Coach John R. Shelton's Keyser High School trackmen will be the favorites when the annual Mineral County track and field meet is held today at 1 p.m. in Keyser.

Keyser has won the meet nine times in the last ten years. Ridgeley was the victor in 1954.

Last year Keyser piled up 61 points to Ridgeley's 47. Elk Garden was third with only three points.

Walker Cup Play To Open

American Golfers Good In Practice

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Two masters of British golf—old pros Henry Cotton and Dai Rees—rushed to the Muirfield links Wednesday to give a final polish to British Walker Cup golfers before their weekend matches with the Americans.

Fine performances by the American golfers in practice sessions for Friday and Saturday's matches caught the British short. The British and Irish golfers have fallen short of matching the Americans in practice scores.

Both Rees and Cotton are former captains of the British professional Ryder Cup teams. Both the Ryder and Walker Cup matches follow the same schedule of four Scotch foursomes (two players make up a team and each takes alternate strokes at the ball) and eight singles.

In Wednesday's practice matches, Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia and Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga. defeated Charles Coe, of Oklahoma City, and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., 4 and 3; Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and Ward Wettlaufer of Buffalo, N.Y., defeated Harvie Ward of San Francisco and Dr. Frank Taylor of Pomona, Calif., 3 and 2. Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., played by himself and scored 72.

Toweel To Fight As Welterweight

LONDON (AP) — Willie Toweel of South Africa, who lost his British Empire lightweight title Tuesday night to Britain's Dave Charnley, will fight in the future as a welterweight.

Toweel was knocked out in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round bout—his first knockout in six years of campaigning. He had difficulty making the weight for Tuesday night's fight, having to shed 10 ounces at the weighin.

Barton To Play Westernport For Twilight Lead

A battle for first place is in store for followers of the Twilight Baseball League today when the Barton Braves engage Westernport on the latter's field.

The Braves, defending champions, and Westernport have 3-0 records to date and the winner of today's game will take sole possession of first place in the eight team circuit.

In other games on tap for today, Midland's Indians play at Klondyke, Zihlman is at Mt. Savage and Lonaconing plays host to Franklin at the Barton Ball Park.

All games will get under way at 5:30 o'clock.

Aggies To Host Allegany Today

Teams with losing streaks will attempt to break into the win column today when Allegany High School's Campers battle the Flintstone High School Aggies on the latter's field at 3:30 p. m., in a game postponed from Tuesday.

Flintstone is 0-8 for the season while Allegany is 1-6 and has dropped five games in a row.

Sam Snead's Golf Festival Begins Today

57 Pros Expected To Play In Event

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Champions ranging from 1931 to the present day will match golf strokes in the Sam Snead Festival starting tomorrow Thursday.

The tournament's namesake, Snead, is the most prolific champion of all the 57 pros expected for the 72 hole event spread over four days.

His major titles include the British Open (1946), three times winner of the Masters and three times in the Professional Golfers Assn.

Billy Burke is the dean of the champs in Snead's invitation affair. He won the U.S. Open 28 years ago in the longest overtime —72 extra holes.

The newest king among those shooting for $10,000 in prizes is Dow Finsterwald, defending PGA titlist.

Another old Masters winner in the field is Henry Picard who took the Augusta, Ga., title in 1938. He won the PGA the following year.

Other past PGA winners include Johnny Revolta (1935), Bob Hamilton (1944) and Jim Turnesa (1952).

Another entry is the Australian champion, Gary Player. He tied Snead for the regulation 72 holes in last year's festival and lost to the host on the fifth extra hole.

It was Snead's fourth victory out of the 12 tournaments at his home courses. Play is held over two of them, each having par 70.

During the last two rounds, each pro draws three amateur partners with handicaps and separate competition is held for their best 36-hole scores.

Besides Snead, former winners of the tournament returning are Dutch Harrison and Ed (Porky) Oliver. Harrison won it in 1955 and 1957 with Oliver triumphing in between.

Oliver has the Jamaica Open title behind him this year. Other PGA tour winners are Finsterwald at Greensboro, N. C., and Mike Souchak at Las Vegas April 26 where he beat all 1959 tourney victors until then.

USAC Drivers Ordered To Wear Treated Suits

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — All drivers in races sanctioned by the United States Auto Club were ordered Wednesday to treat their uniforms with a flame-retarding solution.

Henry Banks, USAC director of competition and himself a veteran driver, posted notice that effective Thursday all USAC drivers must wear long-sleeved treated uniforms, even in practice.

Use of the boric acid-borax flame-proofing solution has been recommended by USAC in the past but never has been mandatory.

Keyser Is Favorite In Mineral Co. Meet

Coach John R. Shelton's Keyser High School trackmen will be the favorites when the annual Mineral County track and field meet is held today at 1 p.m. in Keyser.

Keyser has won the meet nine times in the last ten years. Ridgeley was the victor in 1954.

Last year Keyser piled up 61 points to Ridgeley's 47. Elk Garden was third with only three points.

Walker Cup Play To Open

American Golfers Good In Practice

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Two masters of British golf—old pros Henry Cotton and Dai Rees—rushed to the Muirfield links Wednesday to give a final polish to British Walker Cup golfers before their weekend matches with the Americans.

Fine performances by the American golfers in practice sessions for Friday and Saturday's matches caught the British short. The British and Irish golfers have fallen short of matching the Americans in practice scores.

Both Rees and Cotton are former captains of the British professional Ryder Cup teams. Both the Ryder and Walker Cup matches follow the same schedule of four Scotch foursomes (two players make up a team and each takes alternate strokes at the ball) and eight singles.

In Wednesday's practice matches, Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia and Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga. defeated Charles Coe, of Oklahoma City, and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., 4 and 3; Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and Ward Wettlaufer of Buffalo, N.Y., defeated Harvie Ward of San Francisco and Dr. Frank Taylor of Pomona, Calif., 3 and 2. Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., played by himself and scored 72.

Toweel To Fight As Welterweight

LONDON (AP) — Willie Toweel of South Africa, who lost his British Empire lightweight title Tuesday night to Britain's Dave Charnley, will fight in the future as a welterweight.

Toweel was knocked out in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round bout—his first knockout in six years of campaigning. He had difficulty making the weight for Tuesday night's fight, having to shed 10 ounces at the weighin.

Barton To Play Westernport For Twilight Lead

A battle for first place is in store for followers of the Twilight Baseball League today when the Barton Braves engage Westernport on the latter's field.

The Braves, defending champions, and Westernport have 3-0 records to date and the winner of today's game will take sole possession of first place in the eight team circuit.

In other games on tap for today, Midland's Indians play at Klondyke, Zihlman is at Mt. Savage and Lonaconing plays host to Franklin at the Barton Ball Park.

All games will get under way at 5:30 o'clock.

Aggies To Host Allegany Today

Teams with losing streaks will attempt to break into the win column today when Allegany High School's Campers battle the Flintstone High School Aggies on the latter's field at 3:30 p. m., in a game postponed from Tuesday.

Flintstone is 0-8 for the season while Allegany is 1-6 and has dropped five games in a row.

Streams Stocked

MOOREFIELD — Conservation Officer Bart Townsend reports that trout were stocked Wednesday in Trout Run and in Waites Run near the Wardensville section of Hardy County.

Moorefield Community Club Council Seeks Quarters For Teen-Agers Center

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Community Club Council meeting Monday night at the Hardy County Public Library voted to continue a search for quarters for a 'Teen-Age Canteen as a result of the report of James Bond and Mrs. Jerry Kuykendall. The committee reported the cost involved in rehabilitating an old barn at the rear of the Hotel McNeill would be prohibitive.

Keyser Jeweler Patents Watch Tool

KEYSER — Robert L. Rice, local jeweler, has received a patent on his most recent invention, an all-purpose watch-making tool.

The machine, which includes seven different operations, works on a one-sixteenth horsepower motor and is now in operation at his store. It does work as a stone-setter, tweaser sharpener, milling device, clog-driver, cuts rings in two in one second, a solder machine and for drilling glass.

Rice, who has been in business here for the past two years, has also had experience as a mechanic and a barber. He and his family reside on Limestone Road.

The Community Council voted unanimously to circulate petitions to extend the Town Limits of Moorefield. It was pointed out that the 1405 population figure for Moorefield is far below the actual population of Moorefield proper.

The council also pointed out that the slight increase in taxes would be offset many times over in the saving in insurance premiums, water rates and telephone rates. It was revealed that insurance rates alone would be reduced by two-thirds for those properties adjacent to the town. The council urged that a vote be taken before January 1 in order to qualify for the 1960 official census.

The council also determined to continue the project of a swimming pool for the community. L. L. McConnell, president of the group, requested the committee to continue gathering data on costs of construction. Many of the representatives of the 15 civic groups in the council urged that a pool be built at the town park so that dressing room facilities would be available to ball teams and for other athletic events at the park.

The council members also voted to request each organization to continue to solicit memberships in the Valley TV Cooperative in order that the preliminary goal of $10,000 to rebroadcast two channels may be reached prior to June 1.

The next meeting of the council is called for the second Monday in June.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

(John Crosby is on vacation. While he is away his column will be written by guest columnists from the television trade.)

A Plug For Alex

By ALEXANDER KING

When I told my friends at the beginning of the year that I planned to go on some television programs to help publicize my book, "Mine Enemy Grows Older," I must say a couple of them seemed genuinely alarmed.

"You'd better not," they advised me. "Remember how careless and outspoken you are, and it's just going to land you in a mess of trouble."

Well, a lot of television time has gone by since then and so far nothing untoward has happened either to me or to the TV channels. It occurs to me that most of the people who were so concerned for me probably don't spend much time watching their television screens, or they would have realized how much raw stuff you can actually get away with these days. I find that particularly the sponsors and their advertising minions are as bold as cops and shameless as streetwalkers. I, myself, happened to be on one program where in the course of the commercial, a desperately blonde, anemic tootsie gave visual demonstration of the tactile suavity and tensile strength of her favorite toilet tissue. I really can't imagine what I could possibly have said or done to match this extraordinary piece of commercial public-spiritedness.

And yet, a couple of sensitive television critics did land on me a few times for being overtly and unnecessarily vulgar. I wonder what these characters can possibly be doing while certain animated commercials are disemboweling mankind in front of everybody's eyes and rubbing in the fact that most of us are pretty careless about our constantly deteriorating apertures.

These boys really have me stopped cold.

I guess you can be as sordid as you please provided the halo of salesmanship hovers around your temples.

It seems really silly that there should be so many taboos confronting me when you consider I never appear before eleven o'clock at night when most of the kiddies are probably asleep anyway. It must be that there are millions of people listening to every broadcast who are just hopefully waiting for their sensibilities to be lacerated. These cases of arrested development seem to be watching their TV screens with ball-point pens poised in their twitching fingers ready to send off an illiterate barrage of protest every time a full grown adult appears before them and doesn't bother buttering them up.

Another point that my anxious friends were busily warning me about in those early days was the treacherous and unpredictable nature of Jack Paar on whose show I made my first professional appearance. "He'll love you for a while," they told me, "but in the end he'll just loathe you like he does everybody else."

Actually, I couldn't have cared less. After all, I wasn't planning to marry the guy, was I? So now, after four months have gone by since I first talked on Paar's program, I'd like to hand in this report which is sure to prove quite unpopular among some of the nicest and best-intentioned people I know. My very best friends, in fact.

Jack Paar has been consistently kind and considerable to me from the time I first appeared on his show, and he has been unfailingly courteous and thoughtful of me ever since. He is, of course, an extremely nervous and hypersensitive man for whom each of his nightly appearances represents a major ordeal; and yet despite his personal and private agony, he somehow manages to convey to his vast audience a sense of complete casualness and astonishing control.

I also notice that nobody who has so far written about him, has bothered to give him any credit for his absolutely fantastic gift of showmanship. Now please don't argue about this. Remember, I was there more than ten times and I watched it right at home plate. What's more I'm not just paying off a social or financial obligation here. I'm telling what I really think and if you don't like it, you're all free to go fishing on other channels for tastier fluke.

As a matter of fact, by and large, I think his show is the most completely satisfactory performance on all the networks for the simple reason that it is about eighty per cent improvisation, and has a quality most lacking in television, its unusual and wonderful moments of spontaniety and surprise. Television could use a lot more of this sort of stuff, but there just aren't any emcees around who would dare to ride that kind of a wild bronco.

At this point, I think I should pay proper homage to the monitors, sponsors, and managerial gents who run station WNTA. These boys have stood solidly behind me from the very beginning, and through all these upsy-downsy weeks have not even once admonished me to mend my strange, meandering ways. So far, so good.

Both in enjoyment and results, the way you exercise makes the difference.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How To Get More Out Of Exercise

When you exercise, make sure that you feel how much it's doing for you every step of the way, and it will actually do you the most good. Build up that exhilarating feeling the prescribed routine can give you by snapping to it at every session, by a stimulating consciousness of your muscles at work.

Follow directions exactly, but give the outward fling of an arm or leg vigor beyond the call of duty, the bend from the waistline an extra pull. Note advice to work up gradually to the number of times each exercise should be repeated, but once up to quota, continue to go at it with a right good will.

Heed advice on rate of speed, too. Hurry doesn't do the trick—full effort does. Never give in to the temptation to hasten a slow exercise because it's easier that way. Few exercises take more than a minute or two, and ten minutes a day for the total is enough.

Certainly ten minutes of exercise daily is worth far more than two hours a week, and there's all the difference in the world between the way you feel from the short, regular session than from far-apart longer ones. Muscles come alive from the brisk, short routine, more so every day, but respond so much less willingly and tire from too prolonged demands. The everyday liveliness, not the occasional strain, also means success at the contouring you're trying to accomplish.

Never mind what your experience was before—tackle exercising this time resolved to give it more and you'll get more out of it. Break in gradually and don't overdo, so you can reach the daily invigoration good exercise brings as soon as possible—and you'll enjoy keeping at it. Don't schedule it for a time when you are physically tired, or lazy after a big meal, but it can come at a time when you're mentally tired or have stayed too long in one place. Then the exercise can be a wonderful refresher, exactly the lift for the spirits that you need.

Exercise is especially refreshing when paced to the rhythm of music. Music always seems to be a lift for the spirits—so when you combine it with healthful exercise, how can it miss? Why not pick up a copy of my guide booklet, "Dance Through A Week to Beauty?" In it you'll find a wonderful way to more zest and loveliness. Just send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Secrets of Charm," care of this newspaper.

The bidding:

Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

Where a player has received some warning of possible trouble, he is negligent, indeed, if he does not make some effort to protect himself. South was not sufficiently cautious in today's hand.

South opened properly with one no trump but West's overcall was rather pointless. North had no choice but to raise the no trump and South now trotted out his heart suit, just on the chance that he might hit his partner with a four card fit. If not, North would be at liberty to return to three no trump.

The queen of spades was led against the final contract of four hearts. Declarer won with the ace of hearts and finessed the jack on the return. West was in and continued with the eight of spades which East took with the king. A club was returned, declarer played the jack and West's queen won. He exited with his last trump. South won in his hand and led the eight of diamonds over to the ace. The diamond jack was successfully finessed and the king cleared the suit. The carefully preserved three of diamonds permitted declarer to enter dummy to try the club finesse and when this lost, he was down one.

South had played the diamonds carefully but not the clubs. West's overcall with a queen high suit made it probable that the heart and club finesses would lose. Declarer should plan, therefore, to make West lead a club if possible. It was important to prevent East from obtaining the lead. This could be accomplished by the simple expedient of refusing the first spade trick.

West will no doubt continue with the jack. Declarer wins, enters dummy to take the heart finesse. West wins and gets out with a trump. The diamond finesse is successfully tried, the suit cleared and dummy is entered with the three of that suit which has been retained for the purpose. Now the ten of clubs is finessed which goes to West's queen. But what can he return? A spade will permit a ruff and a discard and a club will be the answer to declarer's prayer.

Sink Fishing Boat

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Chinese Communist shore guns fired 500 shells before sinking a fishing boat trying to escape to Nationalist-held Quemoy Island, the Nationalist Defense Ministry reported Wednesday.

The Ministry said only one of the five crewmen aboard the boat was rescued by Nationalist ships.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Natalie Wood believes the greatest compliment she has ever received comes from Sir Laurence Olivier who has asked her to play opposite him in "The Entertainer," a motion picture he'll make in London.

"He has been my favorite actor ever since I was a little girl," said Natalie, "and Vivien Leigh has been my favorite actress. I certainly want to do the picture if Warner Bros. do not pre-empt me.

"There's another consideration," she added, "and that is I wouldn't go to London without my husband (Bob Wagner), and would want to be sure he could go with me. But I am so flattered that Sir Laurence asked me to be his co-star."

Boris Morros, who was an invaluable spy for the United States government for many years, is back in town. I happened to meet him at the Beverly Hills Hotel and he told me he's just back from doing an act from Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago." He said he knows Pasternak very well and that he's not only a talented writer and poet but a great musician and studied under Stravinsky.

I asked him why Pasternak didn't seek sanctuary in this country when he was being so badly treated in Russia. He said Pasternak had lived in Russia all his life, his roots are there, and he is waiting and hoping to see if things will change.

"I am here on my life story for Columbia," Morros told me.

I like Bill Lundigan so much as a man and an actor I'm delighted he's gteting back to acting again after so many years of extolling the virtues of a well-known automobile in commercials. Under the Ziv banner, Bill will star in "Space," a new science-fact-fiction TV show scheduled for October beaming on TV. Bill plays the part of an Air Force colonel involved in research of outer space. It will mean being away from Hollywood for long stretches at a time as the series will be made mostly at Cape Canaveral and air bases in New Mexico, Texas and Ohio.

Meanwhile, until it's time to start traveling, Bill's brushing up his golf game, "keeping my feet on the ground before taking off into space," he laughed.

From Las Vegas Mickey Hargitay called to say that he had told Al Zugsmith he would not do "The Private Life of Adam and Eve."

"Some time ago," he said, "Mr. Zugsmith wanted to borrow Janie (Jayne Mansfield) for this picture and 20th Century-Fox refused to lend her. I never agreed to make this picture.

"Our official opening at the Tropicana is tomorrow night," Mickey said, "and I am not going to leave Janie to do any picture. We open tonight, a night ahead, as a favor to Eddie Fisher, but the real opening is tomorrow night."

Betty Grable left for Las Vegas Tuesday night, not to work but to be with Harry James while he's playing the Flamingo. She's going to be an eyeful to the people sunning around the swimming pool with that snappy 118 pound figure of her's. I can tell you there's a bit of an inside secret about how Betty keeps those curves:

She learned about a special kind of high protein wafer from the joceys at Hollywood Park, a wafer which most of them eat to keep them in riding shape. These boys can't afford to put on an extra pound and they slipped the secret to Betty. Don't write me—write your favorite jockey if you want the name.

The Virginia and Andrew Stone movie thrillers are extremely popular. Just as the mystery novels take people's minds off their troubles, the Stone movies have this same effect.

Their new one, "Dark in the Sun," is the story of a newspaperman's adventures in San Francisco's Chinatown. Edmond O'Brien will star in this triller as soon as he finishes "The Last Voyage" which Stone is currently filming in Japan, with Robert Stack, Dorothy Malone and George Saunders.

Television and Radio

A Plug For Alex

By ALEXANDER KING

When I told my friends at the beginning of the year that I planned to go on some television programs to help publicize my book, "Mine Enemy Grows Older," I must say a couple of them seemed genuinely alarmed.

"You'd better not," they advised me. "Remember how careless and outspoken you are, and it's just going to land you in a mess of trouble."

Well, a lot of television time has gone by since then and so far nothing untoward has happened either to me or to the TV channels. It occurs to me that most of the people who were so concerned for me probably don't spend much time watching their television screens, or they would have realized how much raw stuff you can actually get away with these days. I find that particularly the sponsors and their advertising minions are as bold as cops and shameless as streetwalkers. I, myself, happened to be on one program where in the course of the commercial, a desperately blonde, anemic tootsie gave visual demonstration of the tactile suavity and tensile strength of her favorite toilet tissue. I really can't imagine what I could possibly have said or done to match this extraordinary piece of commercial public-spiritedness.

And yet, a couple of sensitive television critics did land on me a few times for being overtly and unnecessarily vulgar. I wonder what these characters can possibly be doing while certain animated commercials are disemboweling mankind in front of everybody's eyes and rubbing in the fact that most of us are pretty careless about our constantly deteriorating apertures.

These boys really have me stopped cold.

I guess you can be as sordid as you please provided the halo of salesmanship hovers around your temples.

It seems really silly that there should be so many taboos confronting me when you consider I never appear before eleven o'clock at night when most of the kiddies are probably asleep anyway. It must be that there are millions of people listening to every broadcast who are just hopefully waiting for their sensibilities to be lacerated. These cases of arrested development seem to be watching their TV screens with ball-point pens poised in their twitching fingers ready to send off an illiterate barrage of protest every time a full grown adult appears before them and doesn't bother buttering them up.

Another point that my anxious friends were busily warning me about in those early days was the treacherous and unpredictable nature of Jack Paar on whose show I made my first professional appearance. "He'll love you for a while," they told me, "but in the end he'll just loathe you like he does everybody else."

Actually, I couldn't have cared less. After all, I wasn't planning to marry the guy, was I? So now, after four months have gone by since I first talked on Paar's program, I'd like to hand in this report which is sure to prove quite unpopular among some of the nicest and best-intentioned people I know. My very best friends, in fact.

Jack Paar has been consistently kind and considerable to me from the time I first appeared on his show, and he has been unfailingly courteous and thoughtful of me ever since. He is, of course, an extremely nervous and hypersensitive man for whom each of his nightly appearances represents a major ordeal; and yet despite his personal and private agony, he somehow manages to convey to his vast audience a sense of complete casualness and astonishing control.

I also notice that nobody who has so far written about him, has bothered to give him any credit for his absolutely fantastic gift of showmanship. Now please don't argue about this. Remember, I was there more than ten times and I watched it right at home plate. What's more I'm not just paying off a social or financial obligation here. I'm telling what I really think and if you don't like it, you're all free to go fishing on other channels for tastier fluke.

As a matter of fact, by and large, I think his show is the most completely satisfactory performance on all the networks for the simple reason that it is about eighty per cent improvisation, and has a quality most lacking in television, its unusual and wonderful moments of spontaniety and surprise. Television could use a lot more of this sort of stuff, but there just aren't any emcees around who would dare to ride that kind of a wild bronco.

At this point, I think I should pay proper homage to the monitors, sponsors, and managerial gents who run station WNTA. These boys have stood solidly behind me from the very beginning, and through all these upsydownsy weeks have not even once admonished me to mend my strange, meandering ways. So far, so good.

Both in enjoyment and results, the way you exercise makes the difference.

Secrets Of Charm

How To Get More Out Of Exercise

When you exercise, make sure that you feel how much it's doing for you every step of the way, and it will actually do you the most good. Build up that exhilarating feeling the prescribed routine can give you by snapping to it at every session, by a stimulating consciousness of your muscles at work.

Follow directions exactly, but give the outward fling of an arm or leg vigor beyond the call of duty, the bend from the waistline an extra pull. Note advice to work up gradually to the number of times each exercise should be repeated, but once up to quota, continue to go at it with a right good will.

Heed advice on rate of speed, too. Hurry doesn't do the trick—full effort does. Never give in to the temptation to hasten a slow exercise because it's easier that way. Few exercises take more than a minute or two, and ten minutes a day for the total is enough.

Certainly ten minutes of exercise daily is worth far more than two hours a week, and there's all the difference in the world between the way you feel from the short, regular session than from far-apart longer ones. Muscles come alive from the brisk, short routine, more so every day, but respond so much less willingly and tire from too prolonged demands. The everyday liveliness, not the occasional strain, also means success at the contouring you're trying to accomplish.

Never mind what your experience was before—tackle exercising this time resolved to give it more and you'll get more out of it. Break in gradually and don't overdo, so you can reach the daily invigoration good exercise brings as soon as possible—and you'll enjoy keeping at it. Don't schedule it for a time when you are physically tired, or lazy after a big meal, but it can come at a time when you're mentally tired or have stayed too long in one place. Then the exercise can be a wonderful refresher, exactly the lift for the spirits that you need.

Exercise is especially refreshing when paced to the rhythm of music. Music always seems to be a lift for the spirits—so when you combine it with healthful exercise, how can it miss? Why not pick up a copy of my guide booklet, "Dance Through A Week to Beauty?" In it you'll find a wonderful way to more zest and loveliness. Just send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Secrets of Charm," care of this newspaper.

Nomination Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee Wednesday approved the nomination of Edwin P. Price of Frederick, Md., for reappointment as a member of the Federal Coal Mine Safety Board of Review for a term ending July 15, 1962.

American-born children of most European immigrants tend to grow slightly taller than their parents.

John Bunyan wrote part of Pilgrim's Progress while jailed in Bedford, England, for unlawful preaching.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

Where a player has received some warning of possible trouble, he is negligent, indeed, if he does not make some effort to protect himself. South was not sufficiently cautious in today's hand.

South opened properly with one no trump but West's overcall was rather pointless. North had no choice but to raise the no trump and South now trotted out his heart suit, just on the chance that he might hit his partner with a four card fit. If not, North would be at liberty to return to three no trump.

The queen of spades was led against the final contract of four hearts. Declarer won with the ace of hearts and finessed the jack on the return. West was in and continued with the eight of spades which East took with the king. A club was returned, declarer played the jack and West's queen won. He exited with his last trump. South won in his hand and led the eight of diamonds over to the ace. The diamond jack was successfully finessed and the king cleared the suit. The carefully preserved three of diamonds permitted declarer to enter dummy to try the club finesse and when this lost, he was down one.

South had played the diamonds carefully but not the clubs. West's overcall with a queen high suit made it probable that the heart and club finesses would lose. Declarer should plan, therefore, to make West lead a club if possible. It was important to prevent East from obtaining the lead. This could be accomplished by the simple expedient of refusing the first spade trick.

West will no doubt continue with the jack. Declarer wins, enters dummy to take the heart finesse, West wins and gets out with a trump. The diamond finesse is successfully tried, the suit cleared and dummy is entered with the three of that suit which has been retained for the purpose. Now the ten of clubs is finessed which goes to West's queen. But what can he return? A spade will permit a ruff and a discard and a club will be the answer to declarer's prayer.

Sink Fishing Boat

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Chinese Communist shore guns fired 500 shells before sinking a fishing boat trying to escape to Nationalist-held Quemoy Island, the Nationalist Defense Ministry reported Wednesday.

The Ministry said only one of the five crewmen aboard the boat was rescued by Nationalist ships.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—May rye was heavy, and other grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up ⅜ to ⅝, corn up ⅛ to ½; oats up ⅝ to 1; new oats up ½ to 1; rye off 2 to up ⅞; soybeans up ¾ to 1⅛.

The wheat trade was slow. May was a little higher on some stop-loss buying orders, and new crop prices were also higher. There was little pressure on deferred contracts, but the demand was light. Weather in the winter wheat area was reported favorable, but excessive dryness was reported in the northwest. Japan was said to have bought two cargoes of western white wheat for June-July shipment and a quantity of northern spring wheat for July shipment.

Corn was mostly firm in a quiet market. May met some early liquidation, and commercial interests sold July. Commission house trade was mixed. Export subsidies were granted on 100,000 bushels of corn. The spot basis was firm.

May rye met liquidation and stop-loss selling and declined more than 2 cents. The drop showed a loss of 8 cents from the season's high recorded April 2. Oats were firm at the close. May was sold against purchases of old July, and an elevator bought old July. Soybeans were weaker for nearby and firmer for deferred contracts. Stop-loss orders were uncovered in early selling of May. Meals were lower and oils slightly higher.

Outside markets were mostly firm. The range:

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—May rye was heavy, and other grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up ¾ to ⅝, corn up ⅛ to ½; oats up ⅝ to 1; new oats up ½ to 1; rye off 2 to up ⅞; soybeans up ¾ to 1¼.

The wheat trade was slow. May was a little higher on some stop-loss buying orders, and new crop prices were also higher. There was little pressure on deferred contracts, but the demand was light. Weather in the winter wheat area was reported favorable, but excessive dryness was reported in the northwest. Japan was said to have bought two cargoes of western white wheat for June-July shipment and a quantity of northern spring wheat for July shipment.

Corn was mostly firm in a quiet market. May met some early liquidation, and commercial interests sold July. Commission house trade was mixed. Export subsidies were granted on 100,000 bushels of corn. The spot basis was firm.

May rye met liquidation and stop-loss selling and declined more than 2 cents. The drop showed a loss of 8 cents from the season's high recorded April 2. Oats were firm at the close. May was sold against purchases of old July, and an elevator bought old July. Soybeans were weaker for nearby and firmer for deferred contracts. Stop-loss orders were uncovered in early selling of May. Meals were lower and oils slightly higher.

Outside markets were mostly firm. The range:

Gray Receives Ten-Year Term For Robbery

Brief Confusion Precedes Verdict

After a few minutes of confusion late yesterday afternoon, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury found Raymond John Anthony Gray, 35-year-old Baltimore man who formerly lived in Cumberland, guilty of armed robbery and Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris immediately re-imposed the 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary that he had given the man after his first trial.

The confusion took place during what appeared to be a routine polling of the seven men and five women who constituted the jury. Burland E. DeBolt, the jury foreman, announced to Judge Harris that the jury had found Gray guilty of armed robbery, the first and most serious of the three counts of the criminal information, and not guilty of the second and third counts.

Earl E. Manges, who with Harold E. Naughton served as defense attorney, then asked that the clerk poll the jury. Charles Kinsley McDonald, deputy clerk, then called off the names. Mr. DeBolt, Thomas Elias Sr., Urner Wigfield, Ross Decker, J. Edmund Getty, Mary M. Stein, Lilliam M. Zarger, Doris B. Crowe, Martha Lee Blaul and Thelma Anderson, all from the regular jury panel, and William O. Wolford, a talesman summoned from off the street, all agreed that Gray was guilty of armed robbery and not guilty of receiving stolen goods and assault.

Creates Confusion

Then L. H. Benjamin, the second talesman and final juror, was polled. He created momentary confusion by saying that he felt Gray was guilty of receiving stolen goods but not guilty of armed robbery and assault.

Mr. Manges jumped to his feet again with a motion for a mistrial. Instead, Judge Harris instructed the jurors, who had deliberated about an hour and 20 minutes, to return to their jury room in an effort to reach agreement.

Five minutes later they were back in the court room and this time when they were polled Mr. Benjamin agreed with the 11 others that Gray was guilty of armed robbery and not guilty of receiving stolen goods and assault. Mr. Manges renewed his mistrial motion, which Judge Harris overruled. He then abruptly sentenced the former Cumberlander to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentiary effective October 17, 1958, when his original 10-year sentence began.

Gray had been granted a new trial by the Maryland Court of Appeals on the grounds that State's Attorney James S. Getty acted improperly at the October 17 trial when he attempted to impeach Mrs. Mary J. Zoppo, 222 Beall Street, Gray's sister, whom he had called as a state witness. Mrs. Zoppo was in the court room yesterday but was not called to testify.

Gray was found guilty of robbing William Jackson Cover, operator of a South End service station, of $350 in the early morning hours of last September 11 on Shade's Lane. Cover was struck with the butt of a shotgun after two men broke the window of his car parked along Shade's Lane. They took his wallet which contained $350 and a check. It took seven stitches to mend the gash in the back of his head.

Others Convicted

Howard Maurice Iser, 37, of 222 Beall Street, and Mrs. Alma Mabel Johnson, 31, of 2217 East Lombard Street, Baltimore, also were convicted along with Gray last October 17. Iser drew a 10-year term in the penitentiary and the woman got a term not to exceed 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women. Another three years was added to Iser's term later for jail breach. He was recaptured in Alabama after an early November escape from the County Jail.

Mrs. Johnson was the first of 10 witnesses called by State's Attorney Getty and his assistant, Donald W. Mason. She explained how she had come to Cumberland from Baltimore with Gray on September 10, and testified that the scheme to rob Cover was the result of a conversation between Iser and Gray at Mrs. Zoppo's residence on Beall Street.

She said she met Cover at a restaurant on Virginia Avenue and drove with him to the State

Transportation Queen Special

Rail-Industry Tour Shows Off Area Potential

Nearly 300 Make Half-Day Trip

Nearly 300 persons got a railroader's eye view of Cumberland area industries and industrial potential yesterday in a tour sponsored by the Tri-State Traffic Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Railroad Community Committee of Baltimore.

Among the group were public officials, industrialists, leading citizens, nearly a dozen beauty queen candidates, and a lot of other people you'd never expect to meet on a freight car.

The freight cars—four gondolas—were slung in the middle of a 10-car special train which visited plants and railroad yards along the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland lines from the Narrows to Luke.

Along the way officials of the various industries called attention to points of interest about their plants. They used a public address system which piped sound into the coaches and gondolas.

Covers Industrial Area

The special train went first to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, passing the new B&O yards on the way. Then it came back to Cumberland, picked up a Western Maryland engine and crew and headed for the Narrows, passing the flood control project and the Queen City Brewing Company.

Next, the train went to the Western Maryland's Ridgeley and Maryland Junction yards, past Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, then on to Luke to see the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's paper mill there.

On the way back, the train used the B&O line, passing the Keyser yards and rolling through the Celanese plant at Amcelle, then past the Kelly Springfield Tire Company.

Idea of the tour was to show off the Cumberland area's industrial accomplishments, and to plug rail travel and freight service, a vital part of the area's development and still the lifeline of its industry.

Beauty Contestants Aboard

The beauty queens—10 of them—were candidates for Queen of Transportation Week in a contest sponsored by the Traffic Club.

The girls, decked out in spring finery, braved hair - mussing breezes and light drizzles to mingle among the outdoor passengers in the gondolas. At the end of the four-and-a-half-hour trip the girls were a bit windblown, but otherwise as fresh and smiling as they had been at the start.

Railfans from Baltimore and other outdoors types packed the gondolas to the gunwales throughout the trip. Other passengers stayed inside the coaches, where coffee and doughnuts were served.

The day wound up with a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, where the Transportation Queen contestants were guests. The queen is to be selected tomorrow night at a coronation ball at the Clary Club.

CUF Agencies To Get Assist With Budgets

This week an 11-page budget manual is being mailed to the 32 health, welfare, youth and community agencies of County United Fund to assist their officers in the preparation of annual budget appropriation requests for 1960.

Budget forms will accompany the manual, which was prepared by Winfield H. Adam, CUF executive director. The forms require an exact accounting of everything from the cost of a postage stamp or a quart of milk to amounts paid to national, area or state offices of participating agencies.

CUF budget requests must include a statement of the formula used to determine the amount of a contribution to a national agency, and the budget manual suggests that the amount be in line with support of the same national agency in United Funds of similar size; that the local quota be a reasonable proration of the current contribution income of the national agency; that the local value of the service of the non-local agency justify the amount of the contribution; and that the amount of the national appropriation be a reasonable proportion of the total budget of the local agency.

May 15: budget forms and manual sent to agencies.

June 30: agency budget requests are due in CUF office.

First two weeks of July: budget conferences with presidents, treasurers, and executive officers of agencies and members of CUF allocations committee.

Last week of July: CUF allocations committee meeting to act on recommendations for agencies' awards for 1960.

Last week of July: final action on agency budgets for next year, and determination of 1960 campaign goal.

Gray Receives Ten-Year Term For Robbery

Brief Confusion Precedes Verdict

After a few minutes of confusion late yesterday afternoon, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury found Raymond John Anthony Gray, 35-year-old Baltimore man who formerly lived in Cumberland, guilty of armed robbery and Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris immediately re-imposed the 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary that he had given the man after his first trial.

The confusion took place during what appeared to be a routine polling of the seven men and five women who constituted the jury. Burland E. DeBolt, the jury foreman, announced to Judge Harris that the jury had found Gray guilty of armed robbery, the first and most serious of the three counts of the criminal information, and not guilty of the second and third counts.

Earl E. Manges, who with Harold E. Naughton served as defense attorney, then asked that the clerk poll the jury. Charles Kinsley McDonald, deputy clerk, then called off the names. Mr. DeBolt, Thomas Elias Sr., Urner Wigfield, Ross Decker, J. Edmund Getty, Mary M. Stein, Lilliam M. Zarger, Doris B. Crowe, Martha Lee Blaul and Thelma Anderson, all from the regular jury panel, and William O. Wolford, a talesman summoned from off the street, all agreed that Gray was guilty of armed robbery and not guilty of receiving stolen goods and assault.

Creates Confusion

Then L. H. Benjamin, the second talesman and final juror, was polled. He created momentary confusion by saying that he felt Gray was guilty of receiving stolen goods but not guilty of armed robbery and assault.

Mr. Manges jumped to his feet again with a motion for a mistrial. Instead, Judge Harris instructed the jurors, who had deliberated about an hour and 20 minutes, to return to their jury room in an effort to reach agreement.

Five minutes later they were back in the court room and this time when they were polled Mr. Benjamin agreed with the 11 others that Gray was guilty of armed robbery and not guilty of receiving stolen goods and assault. Mr. Manges renewed his mistrial motion, which Judge Harris overruled. He then abruptly sentenced the former Cumberlander to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentiary effective October 17, 1958, when his original 10-year sentence began.

Gray had been granted a new trial by the Maryland Court of Appeals on the grounds that State's Attorney James S. Getty acted improperly at the October 17 trial when he attempted to impeach Mrs. Mary J. Zoppo, 222 Beall Street, Gray's sister, whom he had called as a state witness. Mrs. Zoppo was in the court room yesterday but was not called to testify.

Gray was found guilty of robbing William Jackson Cover, operator of a South End service station, of $350 in the early morning hours of last September 11 on Shade's Lane. Cover was struck with the butt of a shotgun after two men broke the window of his car parked along Shade's Lane. They took his wallet which contained $350 and a check. It took seven stitches to mend the gash in the back of his head.

Others Convicted

Howard Maurice Iser, 37, of 222 Beall Street, and Mrs. Alma Mabel Johnson, 31, of 2217 East Lombard Street, Baltimore, also were convicted along with Gray last October 17. Iser drew a 10-year term in the penitentiary and the woman got a term not to exceed 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women. Another three years was added to Iser's term later for jail breach. He was recaptured in Alabama after an early November escape from the County Jail.

Mrs. Johnson was the first of 10 witnesses called by State's Attorney Getty and his assistant, Donald W. Mason. She explained how she had come to Cumberland from Baltimore with Gray on September 10, and testified that the scheme to rob Cover was the result of a conversation between Iser and Gray at Mrs. Zoppo's residence on Beall Street.

She said she met Cover at a restaurant on Virginia Avenue and drove with him to the State

Transportation Queen Special

Rail-Industry Tour Shows Off Area Potential

Nearly 300 Make Half-Day Trip

Nearly 300 persons got a railroader's eye view of Cumberland area industries and industrial potential yesterday in a tour sponsored by the Tri-State Traffic Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Railroad Community Committee of Baltimore.

Among the group were public officials, industrialists, leading citizens, nearly a dozen beauty queen candidates, and a lot of other people you'd never expect to meet on a freight car.

The freight cars—four gondolas—were slung in the middle of a 10-car special train which visited plants and railroad yards along the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland lines from the Narrows to Luke.

Along the way officials of the various industries called attention to points of interest about their plants. They used a public address system which piped sound into the coaches and gondolas.

Covers Industrial Area

The special train went first to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 at North Branch, passing the new B&O yards on the way. Then it came back to Cumberland, picked up a Western Maryland engine and crew and headed for the Narrows, passing the flood control project and the Queen City Brewing Company.

Next, the train went to the Western Maryland's Ridgeley and Maryland Junction yards, past Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, then on to Luke to see the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's paper mill there.

On the way back, the train used the B&O line, passing the Keyser yards and rolling through the Celanese plant at Amcelle, then past the Kelly Springfield Tire Company.

Idea of the tour was to show off the Cumberland area's industrial accomplishments, and to plug rail travel and freight service, a vital part of the area's development and still the lifeline of its industry.

Beauty Contestants Aboard

The beauty queens—10 of them—were candidates for Queen of Transportation Week in a contest sponsored by the Traffic Club.

The girls, decked out in spring finery, braved hair - mussing breezes and light drizzles to mingle among the outdoor passengers in the gondolas. At the end of the four-and-a-half-hour trip the girls were a bit windblown, but otherwise as fresh and smiling as they had been at the start.

Railfans from Baltimore and other outdoors types packed the gondolas to the gunwales throughout the trip. Other passengers stayed inside the coaches, where coffee and doughnuts were served.

The day wound up with a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, where the Transportation Queen contestants were guests. The queen is to be selected tomorrow night at a coronation ball at the Clary Club.

CUF Agencies To Get Assist With Budgets

This week an 11-page budget manual is being mailed to the 32 health, welfare, youth and community agencies of County United Fund to assist their officers in the preparation of annual budget appropriation requests for 1960.

Budget forms will accompany the manual, which was prepared by Winfield H. Adam, CUF executive director. The forms require an exact accounting of everything from the cost of a postage stamp or a quart of milk to amounts paid to national, area or state offices of participating agencies.

CUF budget requests must include a statement of the formula used to determine the amount of a contribution to a national agency, and the budget manual suggests that the amount be in line with support of the same national agency in United Funds of similar size; that the local quota be a reasonable proration of the current contribution income of the national agency; that the local value of the service of the non-local agency justify the amount of the contribution; and that the amount of the national appropriation be a reasonable proportion of the total budget of the local agency.

The time-schedule for agency budget appropriation requests follows:

May 15: budget forms and manual sent to agencies.

June 30: agency budget requests are due in CUF office.

First two weeks of July: budget conferences with presidents, treasurers, and executive officers of agencies and members of CUF allocations committee.

Last week of July: CUF allocations committee meeting to act on recommendations for agencies' awards for 1960.

Last week of July: final action on agency budgets for next year, and determination of 1960 campaign goal.

From there the tour will go to Barrelville and Mt. Savage. At Barrelville, the group will see a large sawmill of the Curry Lumber Company in operation. At Mt. Savage, they first will visit the farm of Raymond Lepley, where there is a good farm pond.
